Five Are Killed, 125 Hurt When Train Derails

Florida Vacationers Aboard Streamliner Mishap In S. Carolina

DILLON, S. C., (P)—A 17-car streamliner, bound from Miami to New York, careened off the rails near here last night and piled up a mass of twisted wreckage.

At least five persons died. More than 125 injured were rushed to hospitals, many of them in critical condition. Rescue workers continued to probe the wreckage and officials said more bodies may be found.

Some of the injured lay for hours pinned in the shattered cars of the Atlantic Coast line's fast passenger train, the East Coast Champion.

Doctors Crawled In

Skilled rescue workers, called from their beds, used acetylene torches to reach the victims. Doctors crawled after them giving first aid and sometimes operating on the spot to free the injured.

More than 25 ambulances recruited from far and wide in this Northeast South Carolina tobacco section, maintained a steady parade to and from half a dozen swamped community hospitals.

Part of the train caught fire and the burning oil, emergency lights and cutting torches cast a weird glow.

Occurred Just Before Midnight

The wreck occurred shortly before midnight, 2½ miles south of Dillon, 12 miles south of the North Carolina line and only about 25 miles from Rennett, N. C., where two ACL passenger trains crashed Dec. 16, 1943, killing 72 persons and injuring 187.

Roaring northward through the night, the train carried an estimated 300 passengers, many of them vacationers returning from a winter in Florida.

The seriously injured engineer, B. B. Sweeney of Rocky Mount, N. C., told Sheriff Pete Rogers he didn't know what happened. He said a freight train covered the same stretch only 10 minutes before the Champion derailed.

Parents Who Gave Away Daughter Fined By Judge

LISBON — An East Palestine couple was given a 90-day suspended jail sentence and fined $50 by Judge Louis Tobin Monday on charges they "gave" their 3-month-old daughter away.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lewis pleaded guilty to the charge of placing of a child two years and under for adoption without following legal procedure.

Rigby Mast, Columbiana County welfare director who filed the charges, said the case came to light several weeks ago when the couple was brought before Judge Louis Tobin on a neglect charge, which was later dismissed.

It developed the Lewises had given their young daughter to Mr. and Mrs. John Whitehead of East Palestine RD in 1947. The Whiteheads had never filed adoption proceedings, but Judge Tobin ordered them to do so this week.

He said whether they get to keep the youngster depends on the investigation of the adoption.

Meanwhile, the child is to remain with the Whiteheads but will be under the rule of the welfare department.

Judge Tobin said the law against placing a child under 2, unless through the court and other agencies, is both a protection for the child and those wishing to adopt it. The judge said the background of both the child and the real parents must be investigated for both mental and physical matters.

7 Changes In Proposed Milk Code Approved

County Health Board Fails To Adopt Code Pending Further Study

The Columbiana County Board of Health approved seven changes recommended by the milk advisory committee into the proposed standard milk code at its monthly meeting Monday night at the Lisbon Courthouse.

The board took no action to adopt the code, but will take it under further advisement before making any final decision.

If the code is adopted, the action will come after three routine readings during regular board sessions since one of the changes specified that the code not be adopted as an emergency measure as originally planned.

The other changes redefined a milk producer as a person owning three or more cows instead of one or more; (2) a dairy farm where three or more cows are kept, instead of one or more; (3) require inspectors to disinfect footwear before entering barns; (4) require Bangs disease and tuberculosis accreditation for herds selling Grade A milk; (5) eliminate the six-member advisory council which would have been appointed by the board; (6) and require Grade A milk producers to maintain a grade of 90 in testing programs under the code.

A general discussion was held following remarks by B. Russell Franklin, county sanitarian, who read a number of letters from citizens who favor the adoption. He also read a letter from Nelson O. Baunach of Salem, chairman of the milk committee, who said he "did not think that Columbiana County is ready for the standard code."

But John Eiferd of East Liverpool, former president of the county health board and a dairy plant owner, disagreed.

Eiferd said "the county is ready; absolutely ready for the code."

Lynn Riddle of Lisbon, vice president of the board, also spoke.

Of 100 men who started, only 60 arrived at the Red prison, he said, and related:

"We were not allowed to stop for any cause—not even to go to the latrine. If you did, you would have to look out for yourself."

"One night 17 of us were put in

Old Clothing For Refugees Is Sought

Rotary Club members renewed their appeal today for discarded clothing to be sent to the refugees in Berlin.

Headquarters for the collection has been established in the former Firestone Electric store on S. Broadway, and an additional center set up at the Damascus Methodist Church for people in that community.

The empty store room will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. to receive clothing donations. Persons who want their donations picked up are asked to dial 9144 or 3407 and some Rotarian will call.

The committee in charge includes Eugene Young, chairman, Dr. L. W. King, R. S. McCulloch, Sr., Herbert Butcher, George Emery and C. R. Conroy.

Five Hurt, One Seriously In Road Mishaps

Donald McGaffic, 54, Of New Waterford In Poor Condition

Five area persons were injured, one critically, in two of the three district traffic mishaps investigated by Salem State Highway Patrolmen Monday and this morning.

Injured were:

Donald McGaffic, 54, of New Waterford, severe head lacerations, possible fractured skull and concussion.

His wife, Mary, 45, abrasions of the right shoulder.

Their daughter, Joyce, 17, contusions of the nose and knees.

Mrs. Elise Starkley, 39, of RD 1, Leetonia, Salem Girl Scout Council president, fracture of the right knee cap.

Delmar Taylor, 28, of RD 5, Lisbon, compound fracture of the right knee, lacerations of the chin and contusions.

The members of the McGaffic family were hurt at 9:20 p. m. Monday when the auto operated by Mr. McGaffic went out of control and struck a guard rail on Route 7, one-half mile south of its junction with Route 14.

The car bounded back into the middle of the road after the impact, throwing the driver out. His head struck the guard rail as he fell, patrolmen said.

Mr. McGaffic was admitted to Salem City Hospital where his condition is reported as "very poor." His wife and daughter were treated at the hospital and released.

The other two persons were injured at 6:50 a.m. today on Route 344, two and one-half miles west of Leetonia, when a car driven east by Mr. Taylor went out of control and crashed into the approaching auto operated by Mrs. Starkley.

Both drivers were admitted to City Hospital after the mishap, but Mr. Taylor was later transferred to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Youngstown.

Taylor was cited by patrolmen for reckless operation. Mrs. Starkley was returning home after driving her husband Stanley to his job at the Crescent Machine Co. in Leetonia.

Cars driven by Raymond Massie Jr., 18, of Petersburg and Evelyn Burton, 26, of Leetonia sideswiped at 8:15 a.m. Monday on Route 14, one and one-half miles east of Salem.

Patrolmen said the accident occurred as Miss Burton was attempting to pass the other auto.

Lisbon Fire Checked

LISBON — Firemen were called Monday night at 6 to check a fire at a home on W. Washington St. owned by Harold Kepner. Firemen said the house is being remodeled and workmen had left an oil stove burning. It ignited part of the floor. Minor damage was reported.

Friends Pastor Begins Sixth Year Here, Plans Trip Abroad

Rev. Harold B. Winn, pastor of the First Friends Church for the past six years, has accepted a call from the congregation for another year, it was announced today. The church year begins Sept. 1.

During his ministry the church has made a rapid growth and Bible School rooms have been added to the edifice to provide for increased attendance.

Active in Damascus Quarterly Meeting, formed of Friends churches in this district, Rev. Winn has served as superintendent for several years. On Ohio Yearly Meeting he is on both the Foreign Missionary and the Extension Work boards. Interested in the Sebring Camp Meeting, Rev. Winn was made president of the association for this year.

Rev. Winn has enrolled in the Winona Lake (Ind.) School of Theology 1953 Flying Seminar, which is scheduled for July 25-Aug. 29. The church is giving Rev. Winn a five-week vacation so that he can

Youth, 21, Gets 2 Prison Terms

Wellsville Resident Was Indicted Twice

LISBON — A 21-year-old Wellsville youth was sentenced to the Ohio Penitentiary for terms of 1-10 years and 5-30 years Monday in common pleas court by Judge Joel H. Sharp.

Harry G. Montgomery was given the first sentence after he was denied probation for robbing the Powell service station at Wellsville Nov. 26, and the second term for the breaking and entering of an inhabited dwelling March 31. The defendant had been indicted by the January Grand Jury for the service station robbery.

While awaiting hearing on a probation request, he was arrested for taking $1.75 from the Willard Montgomery home in Wellsville. He was then indicted by the April Grand Jury.

Judge Sharp placed Robert Strickland, 19, 9f Clendenin, W. Va., on five years probation after

Carrier Planes Attack Close To U. N. Lines

SEOUL (P)—U. S. carrier planes today smashed Communist positions less than a mile ahead of Allied lines in the Heartbreak and Sniper Ridge sector of Eastern Korea.

Ground-based U. N. warplanes struck deep into North Korea, attacking a Red airfield and supply lines.

Only light patrol contacts were reported along the 155-mile ground front as another group of sick and wounded prisoners of war were exchanged at Panmunjom.

The Navy said planes from the carriers Oriskany and Princeton struck Red positions near Sniper and Heartbreak Ridges to break up a possible Communist probing attack.

Eleven Okinawa-based B29 Superforts hit the repaired Taechon airfield 12 miles southeast of Kusan and the Namsi airfield in Northwestern Korea. Three Superforts unloaded their bombs on Singi, a supply base in the same general area.

Lisbon Workers Pay Raise Bill Tabled

LISBON — Village council last night tabled the second reading on two ordinances when only four members appeared at the meeting.

First reading was given two weeks ago granting pay increases to six employees and prohibiting soliciting in the residential sections.

Jack Rutter, engineer at the R. Thomas & Sons Co., told council the plant has new equipment purchased to eliminate some of the smoke from the industry.

At council's last meeting a group of residents complained of smoke in the East End.

the water was saturating the road and endangering its foundation.

Rufus Lide, Columbiana County game protector, investigating the opened dam Saturday, said the beavers already had about half as much water impounded as had been drained out. The beavers had built the dam up a foot and a half, he said.

The State Highway Department, on orders of Highway Supervisor E. O. Harsh, used a clam shovel to open up the dam and two trucks to haul the debris to the opposite side of the road.

The dam, located there for a little over two years, has been an educational attraction for many school teachers and students, as well as nature lovers, who could watch the beavers working in the late dusk of the evening, Lide points out.

The stream where the beavers have been working is a small tributary which flows into Guilford Lake and thence into Little Beaver Creek. The beavers had impounded about three and one-half acres of water before it was let out.

About two acres of ground have been providing the beavers with trees and other materials for their dam. Big-tooth poplar, a tree of no commercial value, has been their chief diet.

Another beaver dam in the Leetonia area is doing damage to the village disposal system, Mr. Lide said. The dam has backed water dangerously close to stopping operation and will have to be torn down, he explained.

Waterworks Land Leased By Commission

A one-year lease has been signed between Salem's Water Commission and the A. C. Bartholomew Lincoln Mercury Co., 485 W. State St., for the tract of land west of the city's water pumping station on W. State St. which the company plans to use as an auto display lot.

Aubrey Hayes, city water superintendent, said today that the water department will receive $50 per month for the land.

City Council authorized the Water Commission to enter into such a contract at a meeting early this year.

Group Tells Of Hardships In Red Prisons

Russians Tried To Get Some Shot; 35 Americans Freed

PANMUNJOM, Korea (P)—A second group of 100 disabled but jubilant Allied prisoners came back from North Korean prison stockades today as the 30 Americans exchanged Monday landed in Japan on their way home.

Many of the American and other United Nations prisoners who rolled through Freedom Gate today were laughing and joking, in sharp contrast to the solemn air of those freed as the exchange of sick and wounded began yesterday.

But today's group of 35 Americans, 12 British, 3 Turks and 50 South Koreans told also of seriously sick and wounded comrades still in Red prison camps and of death marches over frozen highways during the bitter winters of 1950, 1951 and 1952.

55 GIs Still Held

The Reds have said they would exchange 100 South Koreans for 350 North Koreans and 150 Chinese Communists tomorrow, leaving 55 Americans the Reds have promised to free still in Communist hands.

All of the 605 disabled United Nations and South Korean captives to be freed by the Reds are to be exchanged by Saturday, the day full-scale armistice negotiations are to be resumed.

Some 5,800 North Korean and Chinese sick and wounded will be back in Communist hands by May 1.

Allied reconnaissance planes today spotted a convoy of Communist trucks and ambulances carrying more sick and wounded prisoners toward Panmunjom. Shortly after noon it was moving between Sariwon and Sohung, 50 to 75 miles north of Kaesong.

POWs Land In Tokyo

A plane carrying 36 Americans and other Allied sick and wounded from Korea landed Tuesday at Tachikawa airbase, near Tokyo. Air Force officials said there will be daily flights until all U. S. prisoners are in Japan on their way home.

Twelve of the Americans flown to Japan Tuesday were carried from the big transport on litters. Newsmen at the airbase were not permitted to interview them.

In the Panmunjom neutral zone between two warring armies even the weather was more cheerful as the exchange of sick and wounded captives went through the second day.

The second batch of 500 disabled Chinese and North Koreans appeared a little less grumpy than yesterday's 500 as they headed north through a brand new arch erected by the Reds to match the Allies' Freedom Gate.

The Communist arch was emblazoned with Chinese characters proclaiming "Long Live the Chi-

Police Investigate 3 Traffic Accidents

No one was injured in any of the three city traffic mishaps investigated by police Monday and this morning.

John DeRienzo of 951 Jones Drive reported to police that a truck-trailer operated by Andrew Laya of Triadelphia, W. Va. backed into his car at 12:23 a.m. today on Franklin St., at its intersection with S. Ellsworth Ave. Some damage was caused to the front of his auto.

A car driven by Nellie F. DeBee of Alliance and a truck operated by Charles Eichler of RD 4, Salem collided at 7:41 a.m. today at the intersection of Jennings Ave. and W. Fifth St.

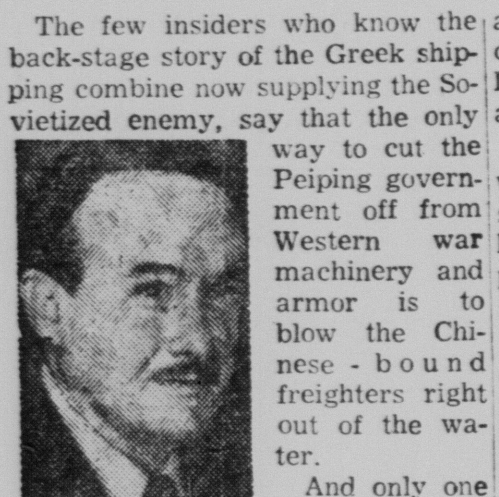

At 12:45 p.m. Monday cars driven by Robert L. Lutsch of 905 Arch St. and Paul D. Williams of 873 S. Union Ave. collided at the intersection of N. Lincoln Ave. and Sugartree Alley, causing some damage to Lutsch's auto.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

The few insiders who know the back-stage story of the Greek shipping combine now supplying the Sovietized enemy, say that the only way to cut the Peiping government off from Western war machinery and armor is to blow the Chinese-bound freighters right out of the water.

And only one of this small band of informed men is willing to say so publicly. He's the AFL sailors' leader, the jaunty, blunt Harry Lundberg, respected by the presidents of the U.S., the AFL and CIO alike. And admired by Sen. Taft too, which makes Lundberg quite a man.

Lundberg and the other insiders know that the British, working in the Hong Kong area with the Sovietized Chinese navy and army have promised harbors and naval protection to Greek and British cargo ships running into the enemy ports and transshipment islands.

AT LEAST 150 of these big freighters sail out of London regularly.

Many owned by Greek millionaires, operating under false front Panamanian, Liberian, Indian, Portuguese and other small nation flags and registries, have been arming the enemy for years. They carry cargo contracted for by such London trade agents as Otto Adler, a typical middle-man.

In January Adler spent two weeks in China. There he bought some $400,000 worth of furs and hides, much of which will be whipped into manufactured goods for sale in the U. S.

In return, Adler, the first British citizen to actually go to China as such a middle-man, promised delivery of medical, chemical and manufactured materials.

These are loaded aboard the specially chartered Greek and other vessels, which then run either to Hong Kong or the heavily armed island of Lapsampei, between British Hong Kong and Portuguese Macao. From there the goods are transhipped to the Communist Chinese mainland.

TO THESE ports also run some 40 Italian freighters, of American origin, as well as French and Scandinavian vessels. These ships are from 1,700 to 6,700 tons.

One of these freighters delivered 1,000 tons of steel plate, some 2 inches thick, on Feb. 18. It was unloaded on Lapsampei, the largest of the Man Shan group of islands, and transhipped to the Chinese warplants by junks going up the Pearl River delta to Whampoa.

Sometimes this transshipment is completely ignored, according to American seafaring union sources. The ships go right from Hong Kong military maneuver took place some three weeks ago. Nice allies. Nor did they move a winch when the Chinese Communist gunboats raced into British waters to seize three vacationing Americans, including the heroic Capt. Ben Krasner, of 11 Bragaw, Ave., Newark, N. J.

Krasner had antagonized the Red Chinese by rejecting an offer of $20,000 in gold to run a load of guns, hidden under tobacco, into Macao, just across the river from Red China. The tobacco was for Portuguese merchants. The guns were for the front against our GIs.

So what good did the Greek government do when, early in February, it forbid all Greek ships, or those Greeks operating under foreign flags, from serving Red China.

AL leader Lundberg says: "Such international pirates should be blown out of the waters." And that his fight for this "will go on!"

Nat'l Furniture Remodels For 32nd Birthday

The National Furniture Co. is ready to celebrate its 32nd anniversary May 7, following the recent completion of a remodeling job which added considerable merchandise space to the store.

S. Y. Winder and Mrs. M. S. Winder, store owners, were originally located where the Ohio Edison building now stands. Mr. Winder bought out the D. E. Mather Furniture Store and after doing business several more years at that location, he moved to the present site.

Extensive remodeling was done in the basement and on the second floor, with an annex added to the latter. The building has three service floors and a fourth used for storage.

Merchandise featured in the east section of the second floor includes mattresses, box springs, bedroom suites, studio couches and hide-a-beds. The annex on the west side is devoted to the carpet department and display of living room suites, odd chairs and gateleg tables.

Summer furniture and linoleum are displayed on the first floor. The basement is divided into two sections, the east side of which is used exclusively for kitchen furniture, dinette sets, ranges, washers and cabinets. The west side is used for display of children's furniture and utility wardrobes.

The National Furniture Co. is one of the oldest individually and originally owned stores in Salem at the present time, according to Mr. Winder. There are two separate warehouses, one for furniture, and the other for furniture and trucks.

INDICTED IN AUTO DEATHS

WILLOUGHBY, O. (AP)—The grand jury has indicted Henry E. Imrey, 38, of Mayfield Heights, on three counts of motor manslaughter and one of driving while intoxicated. Pvt. John P. Alley, who was graduated March 27 from the paratrooper school at Fort Benning, Ga., has been assigned to duty there. He is a son of Mrs. Mildred Alley of 126 S. Main St.

Greenford

Due to the illness of the Greenford School music supervisor, Mrs. McMillian, the Spring Musical which was set for Friday evening has been postponed. Another date will be named later.

Greenford School will close Wednesday at 12 o'clock as the teachers will attend the Mahoning County Teachers meeting at Canfield Wednesday afternoon and evening.

At the close of the Lutheran Church services Sunday, John Dodge, Field executive of the Western Reserve district for Boy Scouts, presented the charter granted to Greenford Troop 116, and also a charter to the Cub Scouts. The Boy Scouts with their leader, Cecil Kelly, sat in unison. He also named Rev. Arvid E. Kuitunen, institutional representative and Myron Roller, Greenford chairman of the troop committee. Troop committee members are Raymond Rhodes, O. P. Taylor, Carl Hively, Darwin Mercer, Mrs. Wilbur Lodwick and Mrs. Darwin Mercer. Lowell Cook is Cub Scout master.

The Emma Naffziger Missionary Society of the Lutheran Church will hold its meeting at the home of Mrs. W. J. Weikart Friday afternoon at 2 p.m. Mrs. C. L. Schaefer will have devotionals and Mrs. Salem Gromley will conduct the lesson study.

SUES IN DIVORCE

CLEVELAND (AP)—Former state Sen. William M. Boyd is the defendant in a $100,000 alienation-of-affections suit filed by butcher Joseph Zubak, 30. The butcher said Boyd, 53, wooed Zubak's wife with out-of-town trips and clothes, and financed her divorce action.

Tears Of Joy, Grief Greet Each List Of Freed POWs

By The Associated Press

Tears of sheer joy or unconsolable grief?

Both flowed freely last night in the homes of more than 2,000 American prisoners of war as 35 sick and wounded but wisecracking GIs were freed by the Communists in Korea.

Those happy homelike who beat the gigantic odds choked out their simple, thankful words: "I'm so happy I don't know what to do."

So they cried. But thousands of mothers and wives still must wait, and pray, and perhaps weep again before their loved ones come back. The name of their soldier was not in the list of 65 Americans freed in the first two days of the historic exchange at Freedom Village. Only 120 will be released by the Communists in the week-long proceedings.

The happy ones, spread over the length and breadth of the land, celebrated with shouting, impromptu parties.

"We may have a little party here on Ojo Caliente," said the New Mexican father of Cpl. Pedro Herrera, 21-year-old infantryman who was repatriated.

That probably was one of the night's many understatements.

A somewhat more vivid description of the scene at his Covington, Ky., home came from Jeff Mullins, 20-year-old brother of liberated Sgt. Orville R. Mullins:

"Everyone went slightly nuts." Miss Coran Mitchell's elation was tempered somewhat. She would have to tell her brother Walter that his father had died during the soldier's internment. Some had never heard whether their sons and husbands were alive until last night. They had been reported missing—then silence.

Mrs. J. P. Pumphrey of Cottondale, Ala., who refused to believe her boy was dead when he was reported missing and refused to open the package of personal belongings sent by the Army, proved she was right. Her son Louis, 23, was returned by the Communists.

"Now I know my prayers have been answered," she told newsmen.

Pfc. John S. Poloch's family in Detroit had given him up for dead. "My brother's safe? Thank god!" his sister, Mrs. Christine McCordie, shouted when newsmen told her John was safe and would be home. "We had given up hope," she explained when they had not heard from him since he was reported missing in June, 1951.

"It's been 19 long months," an aged New York father murmured. He is Nicholas Picerno, 71, who was awakened at midnight by newsmen who told him his daily prayers had been answered. His son Joseph had been freed after 10 months. Another son, Phillip, recently was wounded in Korea.

"When will they let me know if he is all right?" asked Mrs. W. A. Fleming of Memphis, Tenn., who had not heard from her son, Pvt. R. W. Fleming, since he had been reported missing.

A happy but impatient Long Beach, Calif., woman asked a reporter to hurry and get off the line. She was Mrs. Irwin Rubin, who had a transatlantic call in for Sweden. Mr. Rubin wanted to tell his sister, Mrs. Edith Rittre in Malmö, Sweden, that their brother, Pfc. Tibor Rubin, was coming home after 2½ years in a Red prison camp in Korea.

"I sure was a happy man," said Wesley I. Todd of Alliance, Neb., in describing his feeling when he heard the name of his son, Lester, 19, broadcast as a returned prisoner.

A Black River Falls, Wis., couple, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Peterson, learned their son was alive and coming home. Mrs. Peterson said she had never given up hope they would hear from Pfc. Lionel E. Peterson, 21, reported missing last October.

The happiest man he ever saw, said Decter Adams of Murfreesboro, Tenn., was George Heath. The reason, explained Adams, was because he had just told Heath that Heath's son, Joe, an infantry private, was coming home from a Korean prison camp. One of Joe's buddies wrote the Heaths he had seen their son killed in battle, but they had heard from him since his capture.

Newspaper reporters touched off a wild, ecstatic celebration at the modest home of Mrs. Bartola Garcia in Los Angeles. They brought the family news of the release of Pvt. Joe Manuel Garcia, missing and unreported for almost 2½ years.

New Anesthetic With Fluorine Reported

BALTIMORE (AP)—A new anesthetic containing fluorine indicated in preliminary experiments on humans it is faster acting and less likely to burn than ether, a University of Maryland researcher reported today.

Dr. John C. Krantz, professor of pharmacology at the School of Medicine here, said it is the first fluorinated ether to be developed successfully as an anesthetic. Fluorine was tested, he said, because "it reduces tremendously the fire hazard which causes a considerable amount of inconvenience and even death, from explosion in the operating room."

Puts a Good Mark on a Man!

Regardless of where he drives, no man is wholly a stranger to the people about him—if he sits at the wheel of a 1953 Cadillac.

His name may be unknown—and also his occupation—and, likewise, the whereabouts of his home.

But he is not without standing. For his Cadillac marks him as a man of character and substance.

Wherever he may be, let him arrive at the door of a distinguished hotel or restaurant—or let him seek the ear of anyone for direction or information... and he has the courtesy that goes with respect.

And let it be said for Cadillac owners that, almost invariably, they respond in kind.

Indeed, the honor which Cadillac does to its owners is the fruit of the honor they have so long bestowed upon Cadillac. When so many wonderful people favor a particular make of car over such a long period of time—the car must inevitably become a mark of distinction.

All of this, of course, comes to the owner of a 1953 Cadillac as an extra joy and satisfaction.

It comes in addition to the magnificent performance of Cadillac's 210 h.p. engine and improved Hydra-Matic Drive... the wonderful comfort of Cadillac's new Air Conditioner*... the car's soft, easy, relaxing ride... its marvelous balance and handling ease... its long life and dependability... and its truly amazing economy of upkeep and operation.

Put them all together and they spell the grandest satisfaction in all the world of motoring.

Have you seen and driven the 1953 version of the "Car of Cars"?

If not—we should be happy to see you at any time. Why not come in today? *Optional at extra cost.

They Resisted Indocctrination

Chinese, North Koreans and Russians also will be curious about efforts to indoctrinate prisoners of war, too. It can only be imagined what answers will be given by the 5,800 men being exchanged for the 600 U. N. prisoners at Panmunjom.

All but the feeble-minded probably will reply to their questioners that they resisted indoctrination. Otherwise, they would be subject to stern measures to overcome what had been done to them by their captors.

It is possible that some of the things they saw, heard, tasted, felt, smelled and experienced in the hands of their United Nations captors may have impressed them favorably. These they will minimize if they know what's good for them.

This is not an era to admit there may be anything less than reprehensible about human beings who live under alien banners and alien persuasions. Absolutism has become a way of thinking among millions who formerly were free to believe that honest differences of opinion were normal.

Among Americans who have reached Panmunjom in the prisoner exchange it is good to know from official military sources that there are no signs of kindly feeling toward their captors. But before exulting about this, it might be well to acknowledge that in all probability the Communist prisoners being sent back to their own people are showing no signs of kindly feeling, either.

Not Wisely But Too Well

Hearings in Washington on the newest of the St. Lawrence seaway bills are turning into a review of a long and successful fight to keep the seaway from being built.

The fight was waged for the most part by the Association of American Railroads. It was extremely successful. But in the showdown, it is the railroads that are losing what they can't afford to lose—public good will.

As Gov. Lausche pointed out in behalf of Ohio, which is vitally interested, the question no longer is whether or not the St. Lawrence seaway is going to be finished. It is whether or not the United States is going to be left out in the cold on the matter of sharing in its control.

Canada is going to finish the seaway, provided there can be agreement between it and the State of New York over development of hydroelectric resources. Some of the capital will be obtained in the United States.

Investors are satisfied as to the economic soundness of the project; it can be made to pay out. That is precisely why the railroad industry has fought it so energetically for so many years. The fight will continue, though it has been won as far as the seaway is concerned. What the railroads hope to salvage is unknown.

Duffers

Pending further developments in world affairs, there is something the unorganized duffers of America would like to clear up about presidential golf.

1. There is no danger of hurting duffers' feelings by publishing the scores of Dwight Eisenhower's matches with such redoubtable opponents as Robert A. Taft. If both scores are high, the duffers will understand. If both are low, the duffers will understand.

2. There is no danger in hurting either player's feelings if there is a disparity, either. All the world loves a lover and all the golfing world loves a loser.

3. There is no danger, period. Golf is a game of chance in which a few players eventually learn how to minimize the risk and break 80.

The American people will not hold it against any topnotch politician for not playing under 80. On the other hand, if they had one who did play under 80, they'd make him an honorary member of every country club in the land.

Drive On Blabbermouths

Since the Eisenhower administration's drive on "blabbermouths" has been announced and will soon be a fact of life in Washington, it is noteworthy that here is a word without dictionary sanction.

Neither Webster's Unabridged nor Oxford English acknowledges the word, though both are familiar with its cousins. A "blabbermouth" becomes in official usage a "blabber"—one who chatters indiscreetly.

The idea goes back a very long way in English usage, always in connection with loose talk. Its present danger, of course, is in relation to secrets having to do with national security.

Thus, anyone in Washington who says what should have been left unsaid becomes in some degree a "blabbermouth."

An over-stimulated clerk who talks out of turn at a cocktail party will be dealt with summarily, whereas an over-stimulated cabinet officer charmed by the sound of his own voice at a reception will be dealt with less than summarily, a practice as old as the history of blabbing, which began in the Year 1 B.C.

Forthright Foreign Policy Unified Allies

Whatever fears may have arisen that an appeasement policy by the United States toward Soviet Russia was in the making now have been dispelled not only by the challenging address of President Eisenhower but by the resolute, sharply worded and even tougher language used by the secretary of state, John Foster Dulles.

The Dulles address is significant because a fortnight ago he was reported as having uttered at a private dinner of news correspondents some speculative thoughts which aroused apprehensions in the minds of many members of Congress that the foreign policy of the administration was weakening at the very moment when critical negotiations were about to be begun. The story widely published was that the Nationalist government on Formosa was to be abandoned and a "divided Korea" was to be accepted.

The mystery of that dinner episode is yet to be clarified but now Soviet Russia and Red China have been told publicly that to the Nationalist government the United States is "speeding delivery of military assistance which was woefully in arrears" and that the U. S. Seventh Fleet "is still instructed to protect Formosa."

This, incidentally, is the first clear-cut statement that says in effect — an attack by the Chinese Communists against Formosa will be resisted by the United States. Likewise Mr. Dulles talks of "the blockade of Communist China" as in existence and speaks of "tightening" it. He also warns that our acceptance of an armistice in Korea is based on the "assumption that it will lead to a peace which accords with the principles of the United Nations — and that means a free and united Korea."

Mr. Dulles made many other points that fill out and strengthen the principles laid down in the Eisenhower address of last week.

Thus it is revealed officially for the first time that administration policy on rearmament no longer is to converge toward what Mr. Dulles refers to as "danger at some early predictable date" and that our European allies and the United States now will base their military preparations on a plan that will aim for "substantial insurance against being overrun by Soviet attack" but with programs that "can, if necessary, be sustained for an indefinite period with growing reliance on Western Europe's own strength."

This means in practical terms a "stretch-out" for a number of years and a military spending program hereafter that is stabilized and will continue on a large scale no matter what Soviet Russia says or does in the near future.

The most important point disclosed by the secretary of state, however, was the announcement of how America has decided to treat in a long-range sense the Soviet peace moves. Here are the exact words the secretary used:

"But we cannot yet tell whether this represents a basic change or merely a tactical shift. It is prudent, for the present, to assume that we are witnessing a tactical move of the kind which Soviet Communism has often practiced."

This means there will be full steam ahead on all fronts just as if Moscow had not issued honeyed words lately. This is coupled with a warning that Japan, Indo-China, Malaya and Korea now face a "single hostile front" and that the United States, contrary to what Secretary Acheson said in January 1950, considers Korea to be a part of America's defense line against Communist imperialism.

For those who have been saying there isn't much difference as yet between the Acheson and Dulles policies the foregoing is worth pondering, as is also the sharp reminder that an armistice in Korea will be considered to be violated and "serious consequences would follow" if the Communists step up their military operations in Malaya and Indo-China as a result of the truce in Korea.

The speech draws together France, Britain, Germany and our Far Eastern associates in a common purpose to warn the aggressors that the United States and its allies "are not dancing to any Russian tune" and that "nothing that has happened has induced in us a mood of relaxation or any desire to weaken the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

Indeed, the moral support given the European defense army by both the Eisenhower and Dulles addresses is unequivocal and firm.

Even the "liberation" concept is stimulated — this contradicting those who have tried to read some significance into the fact that President Eisenhower didn't mention this in his speech and hence had abandoned the idea.

Perhaps the reason was that he had arranged in advance with the secretary of state to proclaim that, notwithstanding the partisanship in which the resolution in Congress denouncing the Yalta agreements had become entangled, the executive — as the maker of foreign policy — "has formulated his position."

For the United States through the secretary of state says through the peoples of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Rumania, Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia that "we do not accept their captivity as a permanent fact of history." Mr. Dulles adds:

"If they thought otherwise and became hopeless, we would unwittingly have become partners in the forging of a hostile power so vast that it would encompass our destruction."

That's the policy proclaimed during the last campaign and it is refreshing to see it reiterated clearly and vigorously. Indeed the whole Dulles address is so forthright that together with the Eisenhower speech it represents what the United States now is saying formally to our allies and to Soviet Russia.

It constitutes a positive and dynamic program. It embodies those worth-while principles for which America has always stood.

It supplements them with decisions that show an America unafraid to face whatever calculated risks may emerge from an invigorated and revised foreign policy.

Satellites Weakening

By JAY G. HAYDEN

While President Eisenhower's peace offensive was aimed solely at Moscow, every available propaganda device both of the United States and its allies has been employed in pumping this speech into the Communist satellite countries.

An inkling of what is hoped for from this wide-spread barrage may be found in an interview last week with Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia by Charles Foltz Jr., European News Editor of U. S. News and World Report.

While scouting the notion that "Moscow would suddenly take her hands off the satellite countries," Tito predicted that the change in Russian rulers would have profound effects everywhere behind the Iron Curtain.

Asked which he considered "The weakest points in the Soviet satellite system" Tito said, "Bulgaria is among the weakest and, after Bulgaria, then Czechoslovakia."

Yugoslavia's return of agriculture to a voluntary basis, Tito said, increased peasant discontent especially in Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary.

Mao Tse-tung of China, he said, probably never was "a satellite" as Hungary and the other countries of Eastern Europe have been satellites. He (Mao) will have more of a free hand now because the single fountain-head of authority, which was Moscow, is no longer there. They have avoided open conflict up to now, although I have reason to know that there was friction between China and Russia.

Tito counseled that "It would be a mistake to deal with Russia on Chinese questions. You have got to deal with China on Chinese questions."

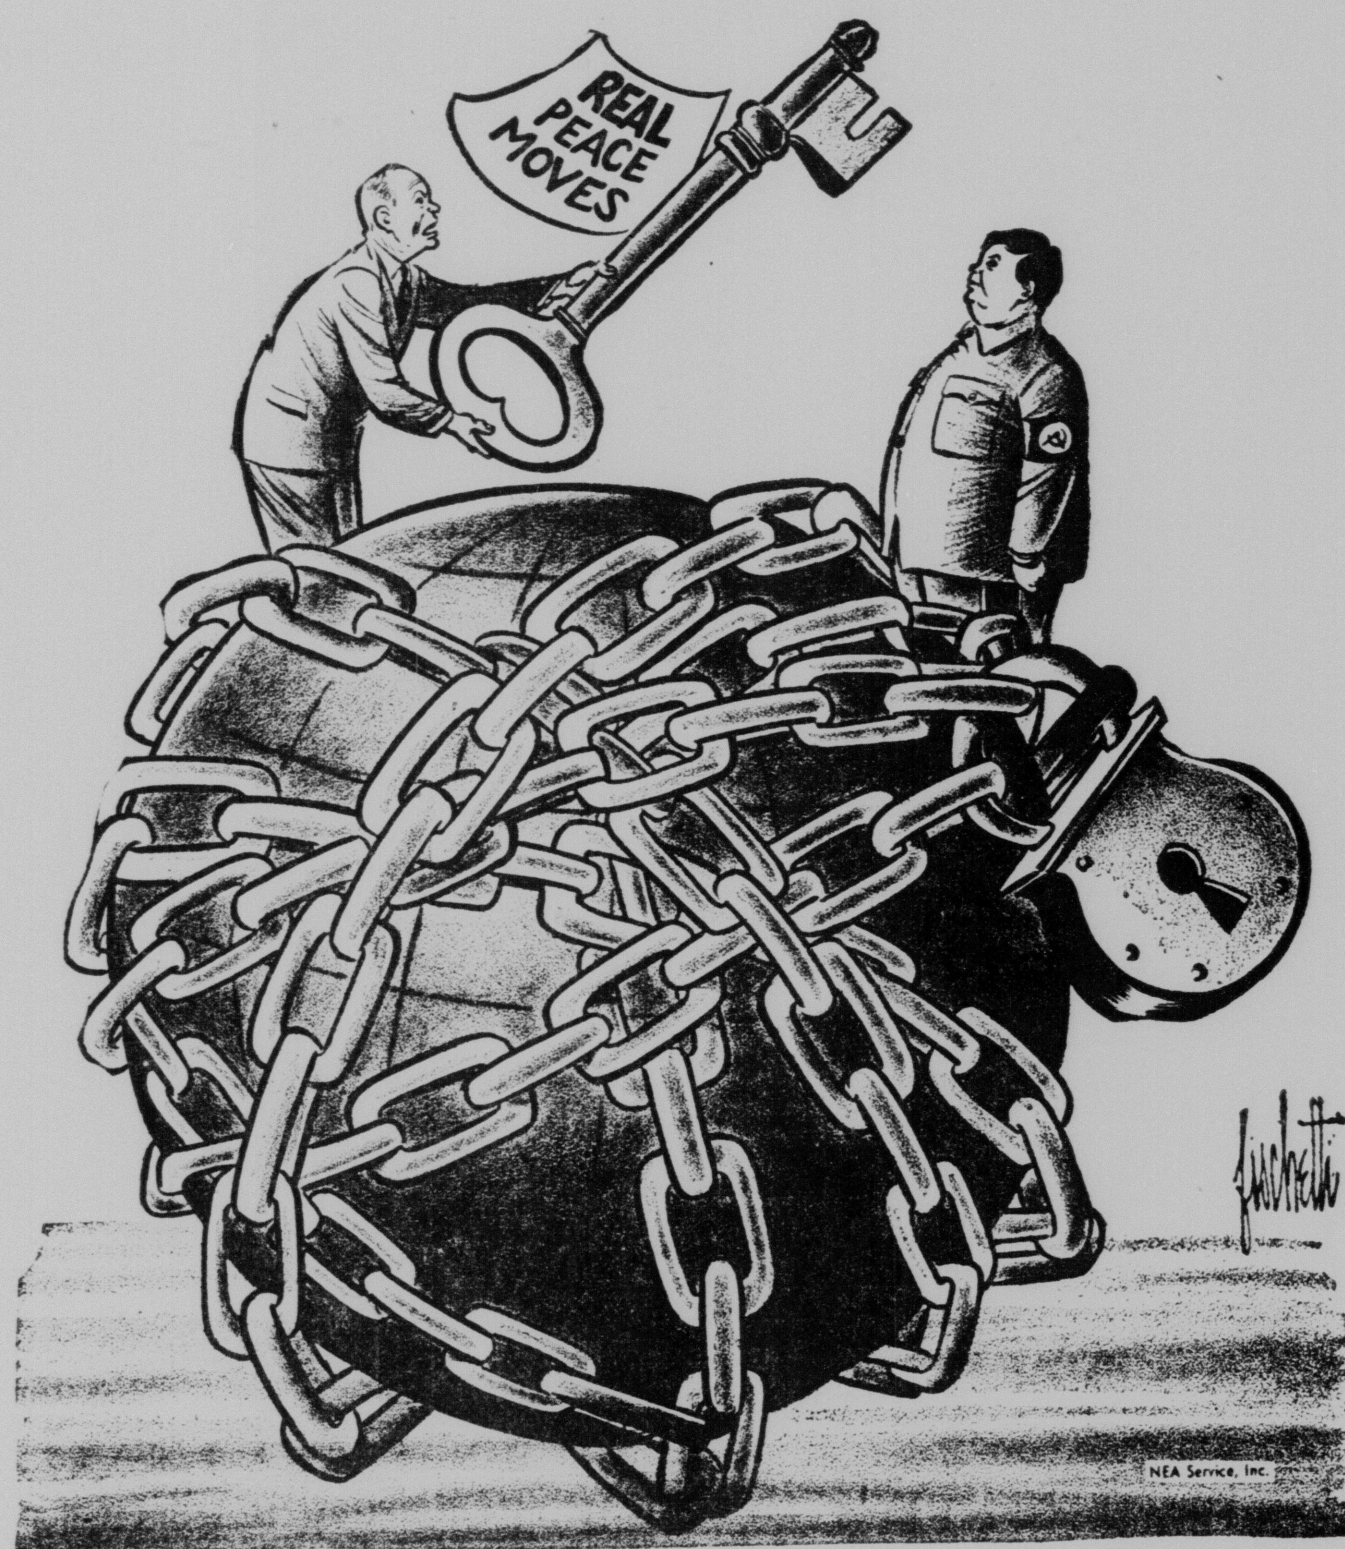

U. S. experts long have been eyeing Bulgaria as the next best prospect for a Titoist breakaway from Russia. First, they say, Bulgaria, like Yugoslavia, does not directly border Russia. Second, Bulgaria does border east, south and west the three countries recently united in an anti-Communist defense pact — Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey. Because it is open on three sides of the anti-Communist world, Bulgaria could receive the same help Yugoslavia has received since its breakup. There is the difference, on the other hand, that whereas Yugoslavia never was occupied by Russian soldiers, Bulgaria was held by Russian troops for three years after World War II and the present Bulgarian army of 200,000 is strictly a Soviet creation. Its arms all come from Russia and probably also a large share of its officers.

The copper mining town of Jerome, Ariz., hangs so precariously on the side of a mountain that many householders can lean out their kitchen windows and strike a match on their neighbors chimney.

SIDE GLANCES

"Here—We've Nothing to Lose but Our Chains"

Budgets And Tax Reductions

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

An old conundrum which no one has yet answered, not even the scientists or the theologians who have an answer for everything, is which came first, the chicken or the egg?

I am minded of this in the discussion concerning budgets and taxes. Some very wise men say that there can be no tax cut until the budget is balanced. Other equally great minds say that governments are like sponges; they can absorb all the money that is given to them; they swell up on the additional revenue, growing ever larger.

Therefore, a ceiling must be put on governmental income; otherwise, expenditures will not be cut. The Republicans are in the awkward position that having promised a tax cut in the course of the campaign, they are unwilling to be pushed into what they regard as precipitous action.

THE PRESIDENT and his secretary of the treasury prefer to balance the budget before they announce a tax cut. On the other hand, members of Congress who will be up for re-election in 1954 realize they must have a cut if they are to win.

Some strategists hold that the tax cut can be delayed until next January, with perhaps a retroactive period so that the cut will be felt by March 15, 1954 and will help to win in November, 1954.

Other equally competent strategists hold that such action will be too late and too small in amount to make much difference. They want a tax cut announced during the present session of the 83rd Congress.

THIS SITUATION is complicated by the actual tax cut in Canada and Great Britain during the year 1953. The British cut is particularly embarrassing because that country is able to do it while it is receiving substantial American aid — an aid which is one reason why it is so difficult to reduce American taxes. In a word, we subsidize a British tax cut by avoiding an American tax cut.

This is actually what the British did:

1—Income taxes have been reduced between 5 and 17 per cent, with the greatest relief to smaller incomes.

2—The purchase tax (sales tax to us) has been cut by a minimum of 25 per cent.

3—The 30 per cent excess profits tax will end next January.

4—Incentives in tax reductions will be arranged to stimulate production.

The Canadians have announced an 11 per cent cut. Both countries stipulate that the cuts are incentives to production. If they need incentives, why do we not need incentives?

It is a very curious situation because what it amounts to is that the Canadians and the British are acting with fiscal wisdom in a post war situation, while the United States maintains a wartime economy. Yet, American aid continues to go to Great Britain.

FURTHERMORE, the American Congress is being asked to reduce its tariffs even to the point of free trade in order to stimulate European production while this country maintains an excess profits tax which keeps American prices high.

This particular issue is the most important before Congress and is being fought over among Republicans with greater vigor than appears in the press.

Those senators who do not come up for election in 1954 are willing to go along with the President's slow-motion program which they feel will come out all right in the end.

THOSE SENATORS who face an election in 1954, and all Representatives, cannot wait that long. When they go home in August, they want to be able to say that the U. S. Congress will do as well as the British Parliament. Few of them will be able to use the alibi that it will cheer the American heart to get a tax cut in time for the November, 1954 election.

The Democrats never promised a tax cut and therefore can evade the issue. The danger for the Republicans is that the Democrats might take advantage of the situation to advocate a tax reduction.

No one questions the intent or purpose of President Eisenhower or of Secretary George Humphrey. It is a political matter of timing that is at issue.

Unless there is a world war, a tax cut is bound to come, but will it affect earnings in 1953, in 1954 or in 1955? Politically, the sooner the better.

Addison's Disease Is Rare And Puzzling

This column opens with a discussion of a rather rare disorder known as Addison's disease and closes with a difficult question which has been submitted.

Addison's disease, named after the famous English physician, Thomas Addison, who described it in 1855, results from disease of two small glands called adrenal or suprarenal glands that lie on either side of the liver. These glands have a rather complicated structure. They belong to the glands of internal secretion. They contain several kinds of cells that form hormones which flow into the blood. A chemically prepared substance called epinephrine or adrenalin has the actions of part of the adrenal gland.

Addison described the characteristic symptoms as anemia, languor, or general weakness, feeble beat of the heart, irritability of the stomach and a peculiar brownish change in the color of the skin.

General weakness is particularly characteristic and the deep yellow-brown color of the skin which is due to deposits of pigment is also usual. Most patients lose weight. Patients with Addison's disease have a low blood pressure and examination of the blood by chemical test will reveal changes which clinch the diagnosis.

The treatment of this disease, which was formerly almost invariably fatal, has been greatly improved. Of course, complete rest in bed and protection from chilling and muscular exertion is necessary.

Those who have mild cases do well when they are given an excessive amount of ordinary salt—sodium chloride—at the same time that potassium, another chemical is kept low.

Those that do not respond to this form of treatment are given another chemical related to the secretion of the adrenal gland. This has the lengthy name of desoxycorticosterone.

Theoretically, extracts from the gland itself should be still more helpful, but because the preparation of such substances is difficult and terribly expensive, they have not been used much, but treatment is still being improved.

Now, to the question, Mrs. K. says that her two-and-a-half-year-old son has been diagnosed as having Addison's disease, and that when "he has a spell, runs high fevers, has convulsions, he loses consciousness completely for two or three days."

According to her letter, the child has been given the usual treatment for Addison's disease and the doctors remark upon the rarity of this illness in so small a child.

This certainly seems like a complicated and unusual problem, since the symptoms as described are not typical of Addison's disease, and it is unusual in such a young child. In fact, this makes it difficult, if not impossible, to make the comment which Mrs. K. requests, other than to say that if this is truly a case of Addison's disease, it would seem to have enough unusual features to be reported to the medical profession in one of the medical journals.

Ridgway Vetoed War Push, Claim

Van Fleet Plan Turned Down, Senators Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators have been told that Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway turned down Gen. James A. Van Fleet's plan for an Allied seaborne strike against the Communists in Korea in June, 1951.

Van Fleet, then commander of the U. S. Eighth Army in Korea, recently told a Senate armed services subcommittee he was "trying to turn me loose" for such an assault, but that higher authority would not approve it.

Van Fleet, now retired, said he felt he could have destroyed the Chinese armies with the blow.

At the time Van Fleet gave that testimony, Ridgway said in Paris he had "absolutely no comment."

In June, 1951, he was Far Eastern commander; he is now commander of Western European defense forces.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, testified behind closed doors yesterday afternoon to the armed services subcommittee, which has been investigating reported ammunition shortages.

Later, a senator who asked that his name not be used told reporters: "Collins said the Van Fleet recommendation never reached the Joint Chiefs of Staff for a decision. He said Ridgway turned it down because he felt it was too much of a gamble. And, too, there was a lot of talk about a truce at the time which probably had an effect."

This development came after the subcommittee, headed by Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me), called at least a temporary halt in its inquiry.

Mrs. Smith said her committee wished to "analyze and digest" the testimony already given before making a decision on any further hearings. There were indications the group might write its report without further testimony.

County Subdivisions To Get $2,201,546 In State Funds

County Auditor Irvin J. Vorndran announces that Columbiana County school districts, corporations, townships and the county will receive an estimated $2,201,546 from state sources this year.

He said the schools will receive $1,852,093 from the school foundation program. He said this is the exact figure.

Local governments will get $173,011, the townships, $53,148, and the county, $123,293.

Vorndran said these are estimated and based on last year's figures. He said the money comes from sources such as sales tax and tangible taxes.

The breakdown with the rate per valuation follows:

SCHOOL DISTRICTS — Beaver Local, $165,995, 20.14; Yellow Creek, $47,219, 16.32; Fairfield, $51,635, 10.12; Wayne, $26,260, 24.8; Franklin, $12,125, 4.86; West, $30,016, 6.82; Knox, $46,538, 8.80; East Liverpool, $481,822, 11.02; Unity, $23,160, 13.44; East Palestine, $108,019, 10.54; New Waterford, $48,066, 26.34; Wellsville, $161,271, 19.18; Columbiana, $68,613, 7.50; Salem, $202,800, 5.76; Salineville, $65,946, 36.58; Lisbon, $126,196, 15.18; Leetonia, $92,136, 15.16; Negley, $16,657, 28.40; and West Local, $77,609, 11.26.

CORPORATIONS — East Liverpool, $63,506, 1.64; East Palestine, $13,523, 1.46; Salem, $34,249, 1.63; Wellsville, $19,250, 2.34; Rogers, $2,554, 11.98; New Waterford, $3,393, 4.94; Columbiana, $8,360, 1.10; Salineville, $6,421, 5.78; Washingtonville, $2,163, 3.84; Leetonia, $6,753, 2; Lisbon, $8,551, 1.46; Hanover, $2,400, 5.12; and Summitville, $1,618, 2.80.

The rate for the county is 76 cents and the townships 46 cents while the total for all is 13.44 based on a valuation of $163,891,460.

But Pvt. Sacco, the first war prisoner from Northern Ohio to be released by the Reds in Korea, has two homes; Lorain and his native Guelph, Ont., Canada.

Whatever he calls home now, there was gladness today at the residence of Mrs. Mary Jachym, where Sacco roomed about one year before enlisting in the Army in 1949, and in Guelph, where his father, Rosario lives.

After settling here, Sacco got a job as a pipe inspector for the U. S. Steel Corp.'s National Tube Co.

"You know," said Walter Jachym, Mrs. Jachym's son and a friend of Sacco's, "I never in my life saw a guy who liked the United States as much as he did. He actually looked forward to joining the Army."

"His hobbies? Golf mostly. But he liked to go out with the boys. You know, sit over a brew and talk. He had a girl here, too, but I don't think they were too serious."

Sacco was listed as missing in action about six months after he got to Korea, but his father said he had been receiving letters from him.

The elder Sacco, still unbelieving when he was notified Monday night, said:

"He'll have to go to a hospital. I suppose, I guess three weeks, maybe a month and Charlie will be coming home."

"It's good news."

Ohio Spent $116,543 On Officials Travel

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Ohio spent $116,543 for state officials and their subordinates to attend out-of-state conventions last year, State Auditor James A. Rhodes said today in a report to Rep. John D. Sweeney (R-Summit).

Sweeney said he asked for the report in the hope of obtaining action in the Legislature to reduce travel expense of state officials.

The auditor's report showed 1,365 persons in 82 departments made the out-of-state trips last year. That compared with 186 persons in 52 departments at a cost of $13,199 in 1945.

RULES ON GIRL'S DEATH

YOUNGSTOWN, O. (AP)—The coroner has ruled that Nancy Novotny, 19, died of pneumonia Miss Novotny, a finalist in the district contest for the Ohio sequecentennial beauty queen, was found dead in her room at the YWCA Saturday night.

Health Dept. Ready To Cut Local Services

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—The state health department today sharpened its financial ax in anticipation of cutting services to local and county health departments.

The cuts will be put into effect if a reduced federal health, education and welfare budget presented by Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of the department, is approved by Congress.

Dr. John Porterfield, state health director, said the federal budget would mean Ohio will get 30 per cent less federal grants-in-aid.

This, he said, "would mean that the state department of health would have to go back drastically to our statutory services and would eliminate all possibilities of any additional services."

"Such a reduction in the national budget will mean that this department, which is supplied about one-half by federal funds, and local health departments will have their federal assistance cut by about 30 per cent. This will be serious for us and will be drastic for some local departments."

PROCLAIMS LOYALTY DAY

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche has proclaimed May 1 Loyalty Day in Ohio. The event is being sponsored nationally by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

An average of eight hours a day of sunshine indicates the dry climate of Perth, capital of Western Australia.

Salem Book Club Members Hold 'Ohio Sesqui' Program

"They passed this way but once. They beautified the pathway that we may see which way they went." This quotation illustrated the theme of the Ohio Sesquicentennial (1803-1953) meeting which interested 75 members and guests of the Salem Book Club Monday afternoon in the public library.

"Sesqui-centennial" tied in appropriately with the Book Club's theme this year which centers around "The Old and the New." Nearly all of the members brought one or more of their prize possessions in the antique line, including rare china, silver, wood, iron, brass, copper, linen and samplers.

In opening the program, Mrs. Fred Switzer Jr. sang "Beautiful Ohio." Mrs. Walter Hunston accompanied her as she sang "Through the Years" and "The Desert Song." Mrs. Ross Clay gave the invocation. Mrs. W. D. King is program chairman for the year.

The 150 years of progress in Ohio were shown in papers by four of the members. Mrs. L. P. Koenreich's paper on "Early Settlements of Ohio" was read by Mrs. Ross Clay and Mrs. L. H. Taylor's paper on "Historical Scenery" was presented by Mrs. King. "Ohio Industry" was described by Mrs. Carl Flickinger, and "Ohio Business" was Mrs. Carl Willman's topic.

Mrs. Maurice Sadler presided at the business session when announcement was made of the state meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs May 4, 5 and 6 in Cleveland. The Salem Book Club, as a member of the Federation, will send delegates.

Mrs. Sadler and Mrs. C. R. Greenstein, president and president-elect, presided at the tea table beautifully appointed in the antique theme. Oil lamps lighted the setting. A castor contained ruby glass bottles and an old fashioned spoon holder completed the unique arrangement by Mrs. Matt Melitschka and her hospitality committee.

A comic dialogue, to be presented at the meeting, May 4, by Miss Erma Hoopes and Mrs. Ira Hoopes, will show the comparison of old and new homes. Lindley Vickers, naturalist at Mill Creek Park, will show pictures of "Springtime in the Smokies."

Baptist Group Makes New Benefit Plans

Since the First Baptist Church burned April 5, seven years ago, members of the Baptist Women's Christian Service League have raised more than $10,600 for the church building fund.

Besides this money, accumulated through numerous benefits, the members have completely furnished the church kitchen and made drapes and other necessities for the church social rooms at a total cost of $3,800.

At the Thursday meeting, presided over by Mrs. Walter Albaugh, the women voted to contribute again to the building fund. A benefit was planned for Friday and Saturday and another was scheduled for May 2.

In charge of the benefit this weekend will be Mrs. Albaugh, Miss Venora Chapin, Mrs. Fred Blevins, Mrs. William Bennett, Mrs. Verne Morningstar, Mrs. Clifford Stout, and Mrs. William Crowe. Miss Chapin and her committee will arrange for the May 2 affair.

Officers elected to serve until May, 1954 are: Mrs. Albaugh, president; Mrs. Fred Blevins and Mrs. Gail Hutcheson, first and second vice presidents; Mrs. Crowe, secretary, and Miss Chapin, treasurer.

Sewing occupied the forenoon hours. Mrs. Albaugh presided at the business session.

It was announced that an old communion flagon, found after the old church burned, has been resilvered and now occupies a place on the mantel in the new chapel. The next business meeting will be May 21.

Girl Scout Council Plans Study Session

The new board of directors and committee members of the Salem Council of Girl Scouts will meet for an all day group study session Thursday from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. F. S. Barckhoff, Jr., of E. State St.

Mrs. Carl Smith, Mrs. Norman Pedersen Jr. and Mrs. Barckhoff will lead the group discussions at the orientation meeting when new members will be introduced to ways and means of adults working together to fulfill the aims of girl scouting.

TO BE GUEST SPEAKER

Attorney Charles Pike of Lisbon will be guest speaker when Home Demonstration members of Franklin Township meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the school in Summitville.

THE THREE-ACT COMEDY "Off the Track" will be presented in the Presbyterian chapel-hall Thursday and Friday nights at 8 p. m. under the sponsorship of members of the Presbyterians. Tickets may be secured from the Youth Fellowship groups of the church, or at the door. The cast show above left to right include:

George Bell, Nancy Diehl, Shirley Bell, Bob Stewart, Joanne Petras, Dick Fetters, Mary Ester Eells, Dick Howell and Evelyn Davis. Characters not present when the picture was taken are Mrs. Ed Sullivan, Margie Kelly, Janet Trisler and Ronald Fetters. Mrs. Ester Eells and Mrs. A. Laten Carter are the directors.

Fellowship Party Honors Lu'herans

People taken into membership in Holy Trinity Lutheran Church during the past year were honored at a fellowship party Sunday evening in the church.

Rev. G. D. Keister, church pastor, welcomed more than 100 persons. Patty Jurczak, violinist, played "Sweet Hour of Prayer," and the history of the Christian Church was enacted in a skit. "Messengers of Hope." The cast included:

June Brunner, Mrs. Dan Balan, Joan Whitten, Mrs. Ward Keller, Marty Alexander, William Hillbrand, John Kehrer, Judy Gregg, Albert Juhn, Dr. Howard L. Moore, Bert Schaefer, Mrs. Wade Schaefer, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Feicht, Mrs. Russell Fortune, Nancy Howell, Mrs. Calvin Funk, Mrs. Delmar Thomas, Nancy Fife and Carol Shone.

Wade Schaefer of the I.H.S. Class of the church presented booklets to members of the confirmation class. To get acquainted, the guests gathered information in a quiz game.

The beautifully appointed refreshment table was decorated in a yellow and green theme, carried out with white and yellow snapdragons and yellow pompons. Presiding at the service were Mrs. A. H. Schropp and Mrs. John Jurczak.

Fourth Street School Pupils Plan Pool Benefit

Youngsters of grade one through six at Fourth Street School, with Mrs. Vernon Broomall representing the mothers, will have a bake sale as a part of the Music Festival Tuesday evening, April 28 in the school gym-auditorium. Proceeds will be added to the Centennial Park Swimming Pool Fund.

Posters were made by Mrs. Leo Pelley's art classes at the school. The band in charge of Howard Pardee, the orchestra conducted by Richard Howenstine and the choral groups of the school directed by Mrs. Minetta Miller, will present a diversified program. Students are selling tickets for the affair.

Salem Man Feted By Family, Friends On 87th Birthday

Saturday was the 87th birthday of Anton Meissner but the event was celebrated with a party Sunday for 43 members of the family and friends in the Meissner home on Hawley Ave. People were present from Salem, Leetonia and Damascus.

Mr. Meissner was remembered with gifts and cards. His daughters and daughters-in-law, Mrs. John Meissner, Mrs. Norman Steele and Mrs. Joe Sevenich and Mrs. John Sevenich of Leetonia and Mrs. Chalmers Groves made the four decorated cakes which were served with the refreshments. Visiting entertained through the afternoon.

A retired farmer, Mr. Meissner is in good health and still indulges his former occupation to some extent by making a large garden each year. He invariably raises more produce than he can use, and delights in dividing it among his children.

Mr. Meissner goes outdoors each day, walks downtown often and takes great pleasure in visiting the sick and shut-ins. He attends St. Paul Catholic Church regularly. Mr. Meissner's wife, Barbara, died six years ago, and two of his 15 children also have died. Besides his 13 surviving children, Mr. Meissner has 55 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Mr. Meissner has lived in this vicinity all his life.

Mrs. Eugene Spack was chairman of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Helen Montgomery, Mrs. Melitska and Mrs. Homer Gray.

Miss Pauline E. Madden Wed To Charles S. Handwork Jr.

Miss Pauline E. Madden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Madden of East Palestine and Charles S. Handwork Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Handwork Sr. of Canfield were united in marriage April 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the United Presbyterian Church in East Palestine.

Palms and candelabra made an attractive background for the single ring ceremony performed by Rev. Orus Rupe when the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Traditional wedding music was played by the organist, Mrs. Eldon Woods.

The bride was charming in a powder blue silk faille suit with matching hat trimmed with pearls. Her accessories were navy blue and she wore a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Murray Peters, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was attired in a suit of navy blue with pink and navy accessories. Her corsage was pink roses.

Brother-in-law of the bride, Murray Peters, was best man.

The bride's mother was attractive in a navy dress with beige accessories, and the groom's mother was dressed in navy and white. Both wore corsages of pink roses.

Mrs. Robert Aigler, Miss Margaret Handwork, Mrs. Elsie McCreary and Mrs. Margaret Madden served at the reception held in the bride's home. Guests were from Youngstown, Canfield, Savannah, Ga. and New Galilee, Pa.

The bride, a graduate of East Palestine High School and Salem Business College, is employed at the Equitable Life Insurance Co. here.

A graduate of Canfield High School, the groom is employed at the United States Steel plant in Girard.

For her going away outfit, the new Mrs. Handwork wore a navy suit with light blue accessories complemented by her wedding corsage.

The newlyweds will reside at 755 E. 5th St.

Winona Friends Church To Hold Meeting Tonight

Owen W. Glassburn of Damascus, will represent Cleveland Bible College and the Ohio Yearly Meeting Christian Endeavor Society at a meeting tonight at 8 in the Winona Friends Church. The public is invited.

Another area of church work will be discussed by Mr. Glassburn at a similar session Wednesday evening when he will discuss the Christian Board of Education in a meeting planned by the Winona Church Sunday School and the superintendent, Clyde Hendershott, Mr.

Glassburn will illustrate his talks with displays and material relating to his work.

Moose Women Discuss Annual Lodge Banquet

The annual lodge banquet in May was discussed at the meeting of the Women of the Moose Wednesday evening. The members conducted formal initiation and bal-lotted on three new members.

Prizes went to Mrs. Russell Withers and Mrs. Dorothy Kalak. Appointed to the May social committee were Mrs. Hazel Kornbau, Mrs. Janice Van Valkenberg, Mrs. Harold Hannay and Mrs. Marie Call.

The degree team from Salem put on the ritualistic work at the academy of friendship program on Sunday, April 12, at Youngstown. Salem women will conduct their own academy of friendship meeting May 6, arranged by Mrs. Felix Perry, chairman.

Lunch was served by the April committee headed by Mrs. Arthur Stark.

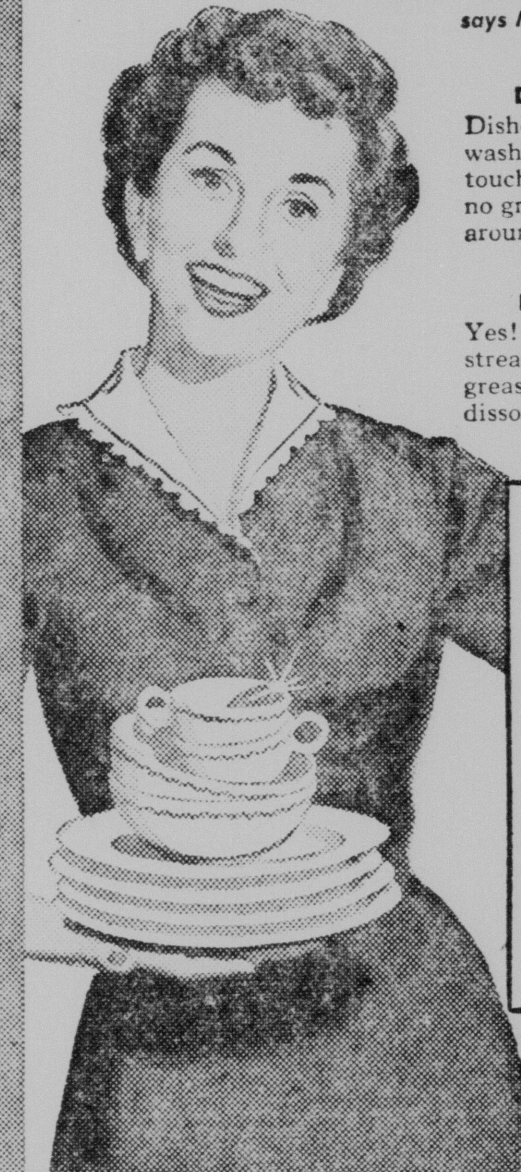

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Dattilio and son have moved from Dungan to 906 S. Lundy Ave.

Gernert Hits 3 Homers As Red Sox Sweep Doubleheader

Senators Fall, 4-2 And 11-4

Cards Crush Braves; Roberts Beats Giants

By ED CORRIGAN
AP Sports Writer

How often during the spring do you hear the plaint of major league managers:

"Just give me one long ball hitter. Then we'd show them."

Manager Lou Boudreau of the Boston Red Sox doesn't have to worry on that count—he's got the long ball hitter, but not much else.

Young Dick Gernert, his first baseman, is just what the doctor ordered as cleanup man. He may not get many hits, but that inviting left field fence in Fenway Park is a fair target for his big blows.

The "Bobby Sox," as they're beginning to call Boudreau's kid out fit around the circuit, won a Patriots' Day doubleheader from the Washington Senators yesterday, 4-2 and 11-4, with Gernert clouting two home runs in the first game and one more in the second. He almost had a fourth in the afterpiece, but it went for a double, barely missing the center field bleachers.

Gernert is an interesting case. He batted only 243 after he was brought up from Louisville last season, but he had 19 home runs, good enough to lead the club. He collected 89 hits and 41 of them—almost half—were for extra bases.

Now he has picked up right where he left off in '52. In 21 times at the plate, he has made six hits—three home runs, two doubles and one single. If his long ball is to mean anything, though, Boudreau will have to get someone on base ahead of him. He batted in only 67 runs last year.

In yesterday's first game, both his home runs accounted for a total of two runs batted in. His first round-tripper in the second inning was the first Boston run after 19 scoreless innings. Mel Parnell, Ellis Kinder and Bill Kennedy combined to hurl a good game, though, so not much in the way of run-production was needed.

The second game was closer for seven innings. But in the bottom of the seventh, the Sox exploded for seven runs against the Senators, and got rid of Bob Porterfield in short order. Gernert's double was the big blow, accounting for three runs.

The St. Louis Cardinals crushed the Milwaukee Braves under a 13-hit barrage, 4-4. Steve Bilko, the Card first baseman, who is up for his fourth try, knocked in four runs with a home run and a single to spearhead the attack.

In the only other action in the majors, Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies evened the score with the New York Giants' Larry Jansen by setting Leo Durocher's operatives down with three hits, 2-1. The Phillies could do little with Jansen's offerings until Johnny Wyrostek hit a home run in the sixth. Then Granny Hamner broke it up with another homer in the ninth.

Kid Portuguese Beats Panter On Decision

BROOKLYN (P)—One good fight deserves another so both winner Tuzo (Kid) Portuguese and loser Garth Panter were rewarded to-day with a May date.

Portuguez, solid punching Costa Rican middleweight, edged the aggressive Salt Lake city youngster in a bruising 10-round bout at Eastern Parkway Arena Monday night. It was a split decision, decided by two points. Panter, outweighted 163½ to 162½, was a seven to five favorite.

Parkway matchmaker Teddy Brenner, pleased at the lively scrap, promptly signed Portuguese to meet Francis (Mickey) Laurent on May 4. He contracted Panter for a May 25 10-round with Joey Giambra, a Buffalo, N. Y., middleweight contender.

Meetings Scheduled For Softball Players

Two meetings for persons planning to participate in the city's softball leagues have been scheduled for Wednesday night in the Memorial Building, Director Ward Zeller said today.

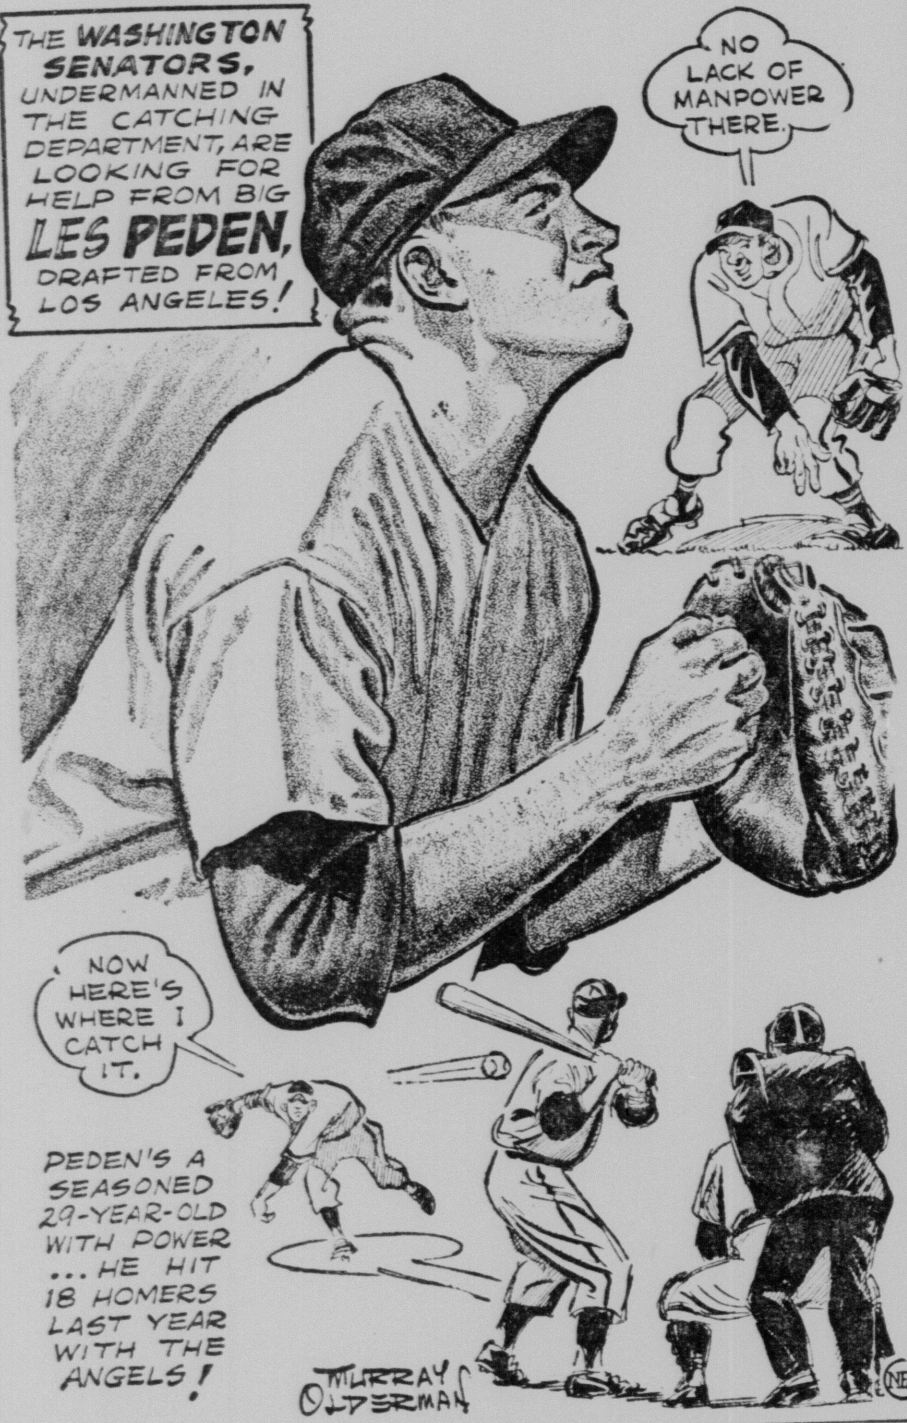

Men of the class A and class AA leagues will meet at 7:30 p.m. and members of the girls league will assemble at 8:30. Discussions will be heard concerning rules, schedules and other data relative to the game.

This will be the last meeting before the season opener, Mr. Zeller said, and all persons or groups planning on entering a team in the league should either attend the session or be represented.

Erdelatz Named Coach In Charity Game

CHICAGO (P)—Navy's Eddie Erdelatz has been named as assistant coach for the 1953 charity football game between the College All-Stars and the Detroit Lions, National Football League champions.

Three other assistants and a head coach remain to be chosen for the game Aug. 14.

Indians Open Home Stand With Browns

CLEVELAND (P)—With Harry (The Cat) Brecheen doing the flinging, the league leading St. Louis Browns take on the Indians today in the opening game of a 12-game home stand.

Brecheen who is 38, threw a two-hitter in the Browns' opener and led, 1-0, to the Chicago White Sox, the only St. Louis loss this season against five victories. Bob Lemon pitched for Cleveland.

The weatherman said it should be warmer and Brownie Manager Marty Marion wasn't too pleased about that. He pointed out, with good logic, that "we've done all right in the cold."

The word on Luke Easter's foot is that it may be even longer than six weeks before he will be able to play on it.

Dr. Don Kelly, the club's physician, said the cast will be on at least four weeks, maybe longer.

National League Still Is Hitters League

NEW YORK (P)—In case you haven't noticed it, the National still is the hitters' league.

That's nothing new, of course, since the senior circuit has led the American League in home runs the past six years.

But the results of the first eight days of the 1953 season again shows the National well out in front.

Including Monday's games, there have been 30 homers hit in the National League and 19 in the American. And look at the games played figures—only 16 in the National and 21 in the American.

Four teams, the Brooklyn Dodgers, Cincinnati Reds, Pittsburgh Pirates and Philadelphia Athletics are tied for the home run lead with five each. The Philadelphia Phillies, St. Louis Cardinals, Milwaukee Braves and Cleveland Indians have hit four apiece.

Lausche's Brother In 3rd Place In Tourney

YOUNGSTOWN, O. (P)—Ohio Gov. Frank J. Lausche's brother, Charles, is in third place in the 13th annual Vallos singles bowling tournament. The tournament has two weekends to go.

Charles Lausche's scores: 191-219, 263, 229, 178, 206.

Fight Results

By The Associated Press
BROOKLYN—Tuzo (Kid) Portuguese, 163½, Costa Rica, outpointed Garth Panter, 162½, Salt Lake City, 10.

TRENTON, N. J.—Ike Williams, 151, Trenton, outpointed Billy Andy 152, Providence, R. I., 10.

CHICAGO—Chester Mieszala, 160, Chicago, outpointed Jimmy Alby, 160, Toledo, 8.

Follow-Through In Golfing Is Explained

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (P)—There must be a couple of million thwarted golfers in this country, besides me, who have been wondering all these years why it is so tremendously important to follow through.

Every book of instruction we ever waded through warned on every fourth page that the pupil who didn't follow through was a gone golfer.

We have sat many times and pondered this strange aspect of an otherwise fairly uncomplicated game. Why, we would ask ourselves, is it necessary for a player to strike a picture pose, his club poised gracefully over his off-shoulder, after he already has slugged the ball and it is long since on its way toward the woods?

We had about despaired of ever finding the answer, and when the mailman dropped Tommy Armour's "How to Learn Your Best Golf" on our desk it was with some resignation that we prepared to absorb one more lesson how to follow through. We were not equipped for the emotional experience which followed.

"You may find to your horror," says the Grey Scot without warning, "that I never mention or picture the complete follow-through except in discussing bunker shots. That means I've left out some very graceful and eye-catching pictures I could have used in this book."

"But I'm convinced that any emphasis on the follow-through in golf instruction is just one more thing for the pupil to remember, and one which won't help him. There are two reasons for this."

"First, if the ball is hit correctly, it's on its way anyhow, and it doesn't matter how you follow through, and if it has been hit correctly you are bound to follow through—naturally. Secondly, it's a peculiar thing, but the people who concentrate specifically on following through are often the very ones who quit on a shot in the actual hitting area."

There were no major surprises in the NBA's spring ratings, announced yesterday. Four men were bumped in the top middleweight bracket, where a champion still is to be crowned to replace the retired Sugar Ray Robinson.

Randy Turpin of England, who took the title from Robinson once only to lose it again, is listed at the top, followed in order by Bobo Olson of Hawaii, Charles Humez of France and Paddy Young of New York.

Randy Turpin of England, who took the title from Robinson once only to lose it again, is listed at the top, followed in order by Bobo Olson of Hawaii, Charles Humez of France and Paddy Young of New York.

To Compete In ABC

CHICAGO (P)—Two teams averaging 975 or better, one from the east and the other from the Midwest, will be among the 40 open division teams which compete to-night in the American Bowling Congress tournament.

Heading the list will be John Vogel Trucking Co., of Albany, N. Y., which has an average of 980, and includes three 200 average players in its lineup.

Next best is the Mechanis Laundry, of Indianapolis, a 975 average aggregation and one of the better teams from that section.

There were no changes in the regular team division Monday, marking the 25th straight day that the top 10 leaders remained intact.

International League Opens 70th Season

MONTREAL (P)—The international League opens its 70th season of baseball Wednesday with President Frank Shaughnessy alternating between predictions of a close race and jubilation over the timing of the season's start.

"We have a well-balanced circuit and last year's weaker clubs have been considerably strengthened," Shaughnessy commented.

"All we ask for is good weather. We have the teams to give our fans a great show."

from his teammates, don't get excited. He's merely trying to avoid breaking the new limited substitution rule.

When the Football Rules Committee went back to limited substitutions last January, it created a situation loaded with possibilities of confusion. The rule states that a player, once removed from a game, can't re-enter during the same quarter, except in the last four minutes of the second and fourth periods.

It further states "coaches shall be responsible for the legality of the return of players in any period." There's no requirement, as there was in the old days when substitutions were strictly limited, that an incoming player must report to an official.

Considering how often, during the platoon days, harassed coach or an excited team wound up with 10 men—or 12—on the field instead of the regulation 11, it's easy to see how they could get mixed up trying to sort the ineligible from the eligibles.

Nobody yet has explained what happens if a player, illegally substituted, scores a touchdown or two before the mistake is detected.

So the same coaches who occasionally failed to count the players in their platoons are busy figuring out colorful ways and means of keeping track of individual substitutes.

La Starza, Bucceroni Rated Top Heavies

WASHINGTON (P)—Roland La Starza and Dan Bucceroni jumped into the heavyweight title picture today on the strength of the National Boxing Association's spring ratings.

La Starza, a slick boxer who lost a much-disputed split decision to Champion Rocky Marciano three years ago, hopped into the No. 3 challenger spot on the basis of his victory over Rex Payne during the winter.

Bucceroni, a slugger from Philadelphia, climbed from nowhere into the No. 4 challenger position, and he claims he's ready to take on all comers.

Former champions Jersey Joe Walcott and Ezzard Charles are rated one-two behind Marciano. Walcott gets a shot at the title May 5.

Col. Harvey Miller, NBA secretary, said "the natural assumption" is that Charles will take on La Starza, with the winner getting the next crack at the title.

There were no major surprises in the NBA's spring ratings, announced yesterday. Four men were bumped in the top middleweight bracket, where a champion still is to be crowned to replace the retired Sugar Ray Robinson.

Randy Turpin of England, who took the title from Robinson once only to lose it again, is listed at the top, followed in order by Bobo Olson of Hawaii, Charles Humez of France and Paddy Young of New York.

Pitching—Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phillies, tossed three-hit victory for his first victory of the year as the Phillies defeated the New York Giants, 2-1.

Yonkers Raceway has added such fascinating gadgets as a nose rest for horses on the starting gate, but there's no rest for the bettors.

They have 184 nights, split between Yonkers and Roosevelt Raceway, the latter at Westbury, Long Island, in which to lose their money.

"I did okay at Yonkers last season," relates Dumb Dan Morgan. "The trotters took good care of me. Or rather, I took care of them. I was up there one night and put my dough on No. 3. It got away about three lengths in front and looked like a cinch. Then a wheel came off the sulky. I put up a loud beef, and demanded my money back, but the joker said no money was refunded after the horses left the post."

"Well, can't you let me have the wheel or something?" I asked. "I'm out five bucks. My wife ain't gonna like that."

"In another race, the announcer said No. 4 had broken. He didn't say anything about the suckers who bet on No. 4."

"They're the ones who were broke."

The saga of standardbred racing in this country began more than a century and a half ago. It received its biggest impetus with the formation of the U. S. Trotting Association in 1938. Since then, with time out for the war, the trots have moved steadily ahead.

The pari-mutuel handle throughout the nation last year was 362 million dollars. This compared to 10 million in 1938. More than 16 million were paid out in purses in 1952, less than a million in '38.

Ohio Senate To Vote On Bill Combining Legislative Bureaus

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Economy-minded Republican senators scheduled a vote today on a bill to merge most legislative bureaus.

They also had their eyes on control of important research agencies.

Before the 33-member Senate was a bill sponsored by Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem (R-Athens) and Sen. Donald Rolf (R-Hamilton).

The measure would combine the functions of the Legislative Research Bureau, the Code Revision Commission and the Ohio Program Commission into a single bureau. A last-minute amendment excluded the reference bureau from the merger.

The Republican-dominated Legislature has differed on many occasions with conclusions of the Ohio Program Commission, a fact-finding group controlled by law by appointees of the governor. Because Gov. Frank J. Lausche is a Democrat, many commission recommendations have been contrary to Republican beliefs and policy.

Also on the Senate calendar today is a vote on a House-approved emergency measure to appropriate $300,000 for a new exhibition building at the Ohio State Fairgrounds. Backers of the bill say the new building can be ready for the next state fair in August.

A House Public Affairs Subcommittee, which had expected to unveil its proposed Republican highway program for the next two years, was unable to muster a quorum during a busy night of action.

The Senate Education Committee held a first hearing on a bill to repeal the state's controversial movie censorship law. It is sponsored by the committee chairman, Sen. Charles A. Mosher (R-Lorain), a newspaper publisher. He contends any abridgment of freedom in one type of mass information medium infringes on other media.

Only proponents of the repealer were heard Monday night. They included James Ratliff, secretary of the Cincinnati Enquirer Co.

Referring to the censorship law enacted in 1913, Ratliff quoted the state constitutional provision against legislative action abridging freedom of speech or of the press and added:

"That is the basic issue here. We don't attempt to decide in advance by prior censorship. In the greatest country in the world—the United States—where we find liberty that has reached heights never aspired to before, we find an abuse of that constitutional guarantee dating back to 1913."

Other proponents included Sen. Robert Pollock (R-Stark), Mrs. William R. Thomas, Cleveland, member of the Motion Picture Commission of the Ohio Federal tion of Women's Clubs; Norman Nadel, Columbus newspaper movie critic, and William Wolfarth, director of audio-visual education in the Canton schools. Said Pollock: "I'd like to vote on this as quick as I can to repeal this law. I believe it is the duty of this Legislature to right this wrong."

Opponents were scheduled to appear next Monday night.

The House Finance Committee, striving to complete its work on Gov. Lausche's $31 million dollar budget for the next two years, reduced it by more than nine millions Monday night.

It trimmed six millions from salaries in the state welfare department, one million in allowances for food for welfare department charges, and two millions from the fund for paying aid for aged grants. Committee members said the latter will not interfere with plans to increase maximum aid for aged by $5 a month.

The House passed 104-1, and sent to the Senate a bill to help cities and other political subdivisions finance bond issues. The bill permits the charging of printing, advertising and other incidental costs against proceeds from the sale of bonds. Such costs now come out of a subdivisions general revenue funds.

Only five other minor bills received favorable floor votes Monday.

Among measures introduced was a bill by Sen. Arthur Blake (D-Belmont) to repeal the present state three per cent sales tax and replace it with a one per cent state income tax.

Threaten To Quit In Traffic Ticket Drive

ZANESVILLE, O. (AP)—The 81-year-old mayor, the three-man police force and the town clerk of the village of South Zanesville have threatened to resign because town merchants don't like a traffic-arrest campaign waged in the community.

The police have made 400 arrests in the last three months and have collected fines totalling $3,000. The merchants claim this has hurt their business.

Mayor Daniel H. Stiers said he and the police department will resign if the town council attempts to thwart the traffic arrests. Town Clerk Paul Scott said he would join the mayor in relinquishing his post.

Marshal Charles Elder said the arrests were necessary to keep the number of traffic accidents under control. He said the community has recorded two fatalities this year.

Farmer Kills Children, Self, Wounds Wife

TIFFIN, O. (AP)—A 20-year-old farmwoman and her 2-year-old son were in critical condition today after her husband shot them and killed his oldest daughter, another son and himself.

The sheriff's office said George Meisner, 23, was infuriated over the break-up of his 5-year-old marriage. His revolver shots on his farm 12 miles east of here Monday brought death to him, his daughter, Darla, 4, and his son, George Jr., 3.

His estranged wife, Darla, 20, and son, James 2, were in Mercy Hospital here.

Mrs. Meisner had gone to the farm with her brother, Robert Grimm, of Gypsum, to get the three children. She had filed her divorce April 9 on ground of neglect and cruelty.

Budget Cut Drive Faces First Test

Seek $10 Billion
Off Truman Figure

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Republican drive to cut as much as 10 billion dollars from former President Truman's 1954 federal budget faces its first test today in the House.

The initial regular appropriations bill of the 83rd Congress, an omnibus measure carrying $451,020,493 to finance 23 agencies for the fiscal year starting July 1, provides the test.

Crucial voting probably won't come until tomorrow. Today's session was set aside to give appropriations committee members a chance to explain why they cut 61 per cent from the funds Truman requested last January.

The committee cut $721,423,697 from the Truman figures. Some Democrats have called many of the reductions phony.

Its money recommendations were expected to stick, although some members, Republicans as well as Democrats, are unhappy over refusal to recommend the normal annual federal contribution to the civil service retirement fund.

The over-all money requests for the Civil Service Commission were slashed from $450,041,000 to $49,961,323. The committee report said that it wasn't good practice to put tax revenues into the retirement fund at a time when the money isn't needed. The fund already has a substantial surplus built up from past contributions of federal employees and the government. The effect of the committee's recommendation, if sustained, would be to defer until some later year the normal federal contribution.

For Folks Who Want a Lot of Car for Their Money

The New Packard CLIPPER

If you've reached the point where you want more car... a larger car, a smarter car, a finer car... here it is!

MAYBE you're saying: "Wait a minute! I've got to keep it around twenty-five hundred dollars. Why won't a dressed-up, low-priced car give me about what I want?"

We're glad you said "about what you want" because you'd soon discover that a low-priced car dressed up like a "big car" is still a lighter, smaller car by a good deal than a Packard CLIPPER.

And besides, a Clipper gives you the choice of adding power steering, power braking or power shifting... all three, if you want them. These are real big-car features—really needed features for today's tough, teeming traffic. (Ever drive a car with Packard Clipper power brakes, power steering or Ultramatic? What a thrill you've got coming!)

You ask, "Is this Clipper really big?" Well, check the dimensions: 122-inch wheelbase, 213-inch overall length. Big as it is, it's still perfectly parkable in tight places. And on the highway it's a big-car riding dream!

In addition, you'll get Packard's contour styling that is setting the new trend in automotive design. Contour styling means not only a handsomer car, but better visibility any way you look! Less style depreciation, too.

You ask, "Has it got a good engine?" Yes, sir!—the most famous engine in automotive history—a Packard engine.

Has it got big-car feel on the road? Why not try a ride for yourself—with you at the wheel, and over a road of your own choosing. It's got ride all right; you won't find any finer.

In all, you'll get about 70 big-car features in the new Clipper, adding dollars to the trade you'll make some day.

So, if you've reached the point where you want more car... be sure to see and drive the new Packard CLIPPER and compare it with other medium-priced cars. Surprisingly enough, the CLIPPER

No—Belief in God Is NOT Enough!

Many people are risking their eternal salvation on a "religion" of their own... which is actually no religion at all.

"Oh, I believe in God," they say, "but I don't go to church. I'm just not the religious type."

Almost everybody, of course, believes that there is a God. Common sense tells us that this is so. But if we actually believe there is a God, should not this same common sense tell us we must do something about it? And how can we give expression to our belief in God if not through religion?

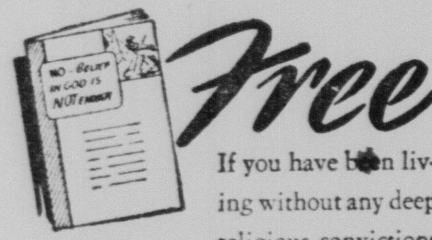

Religion is simply the consequence of our realization of Who God is. It is our striving to be honest and consistent with this knowledge—to learn and fulfill our duties to our Creator.

Catholics believe that God created us for a definite purpose... that He gave us the intelligence to recognize what that purpose is—and the means to fulfill it. It is through our religion that we give evidence of our desire to honor and serve God. It is through religion that we approach God in faith, repentance, love and gratitude.

If you are living in the belief that you don't need religion... that all you have to do is to believe in

God and live a moral life... we urge you to ask yourself these questions—NOW: "Why am I living? Why did God create Me?" The most elementary common sense answer is that you are living because God created you... and that God has a purpose in doing so. Catholics believe it is our duty to find out what God's plan is for our lives—and do our best to live it.

...it will pay you to read a specially-prepared pamphlet which we will send you without cost or obligation. It discusses such questions as: Can the truth of Christianity be proved? Is it honest to ignore religion? Is science, ethics or education a substitute for the Church? Also other topics that should concern you deeply. ## The Missing POWs

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The trickle of American prisoners now being freed in Korea is a sad reminder of the thousands listed as missing—who will never return.

Most of them were lost in the early stages of a war that will soon be three years old, and the nation owes them a debt it can never repay.

Today the United States has perhaps the finest Army in its history stationed in Korea. And as that Army has grown the sacrifice demanded of the individual soldier has tended to lessen.

It wasn't that way in the beginning. A few thousand soldiers had to serve as the spearhead of 155,000,000 unprepared Americans. And most of those soldiers are gone.

They didn't like the job they were given. Each outfit had perhaps too many over-weight sergeants, too many under-age privates who had joined the Army for security—not to die in an obscure peninsula called Korea.

Their resentful attitude was summed up by one:

"What business have we got fighting here anyway, and who do I have to be the one?"

They had no idea what they were going up against. They really thought it would be nothing more than a police action of a few days or weeks.

"We actually thought all we had to do was stand on a hill and show our American uniforms, and those little brown goods would turn around and run right back where they came from," a captain said later.

But they deployed in the rugged hills, and took the vanguard of a 300,000-man North Korean Army head-on. They tried to form a continuous line of defense, and there were too few of them.

They were shattered time and again, pulling their remnants back to a new hill and trying to form a new line. Each stand decimated them, but each stand slowed the enemy and gained precious hours and days that enabled the Army to rush over more troops and supplies.

The American people were shocked to see their troops defeated in the field. If they had known how pitiful small their numbers were, they might perhaps have paid more honor to those gallant few who truly saved Korea.

For their stubborn withdrawals forced the surprised enemy to pause, delay, and sidestep.

"If the Reds had really known how small a force they were up against," they could have crashed right through us, taking their losses all at once, and had the whole peninsula in three weeks."

Some day the full valor of those over-weight sergeants and the green young privates will be known, and their terrible sacrifices appreciated. They were most-regular Army men, and lying with them now is many a young West Point officer who would have been a general in 1975. The Army paid a heavy price in leadership in Korea.

There ought to be a way to recognize what these vanished men did for a free world, but how can you say "thanks" to ears that cannot hear?

Raising A Child Actor

By DOROTHY ROE

It takes a bit of doing to keep America's No. 1 child actor from becoming a little pain-in-the-neck, says Eugenia de Wilde, whose 11-year-old son, Brandon, is being hailed as the new prodigy of Broadway and Hollywood.

Brandon, a tow-headed "regular guy," got into the acting profession by chance. His father, Fredrick de Wilde, was stage manager for "Member of the Wedding" with Eihel Waters and Julie Harris, and they needed a little boy to play the part of John Henry with the situation growing desperate, somebody pointed a finger at de Wilde and said accusingly:

"You have a little boy. Why are you hiding him?"

"We talked it over and decided against it," says Brandon's young and pretty mother. "Both of us had a horror of child actors. Then we decided maybe we'd let him try it if he could continue at his own school out in Baldwin, L. I., and we could manage to keep his life entirely normal."

Brandon became the hit of Broadway at the tender age of seven. Next he appeared with Helen Hayes in "Mrs. McThing," playing the difficult dual role of Howay, the boy who was turned into a stick. Now he has completed work in Paramount's new epic western, "Shane," in which he has the role of Joey, the boy whose love for a stranger forms the basis of plot.

Although Paramount paid him $100,000 for his work in the new picture, Brandon still operates on his usual 50-cent allowance, says his mother and he gets that only if he does his chores, which include bringing in the garbage cans and setting the table. She explains:

"We're keeping all Brandon's earnings in a separate account for him, to take care of his education and his needs when he grows up. He has no idea how much he makes, and we never let him see the reviews of his plays. We're determined that he shall grow up just like any other normal boy."

When he opened in "Member of the Wedding," Brandon's total stage experience up to then had been in the Baldwin School's first grade production of "The Three Little Kittens," in which he had a part with no lines.

Movie Hero Is Former Legionnaire

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Movie heroes—the kind who can clean out a barroom with a few blows of their fists—are a dime a dozen in Hollywood. But here's an actor who is the real McCoy.

He is Peter Ortiz, former Foreign Legionnaire and underground fighter whose life could make a movie in itself. In fact, part of it did.

Last year, Warner took part of his life story and made "Operation Secret." That concerned his activities as a Marine officer in helping to organize French resistance. He wasn't too happy with the result.

"They did a lot of things I didn't particularly approve of," he remarked. "On the other hand, they did some things I thought were good. I had no control over the script. They had stipulated that I was to help in the screen play, but never consulted me."

It's possible that the scripters didn't want the facts to interfere. That's understandable, because Ortiz' life might appear unbelievable on the screen.

He told me some of his background on the set of "Arizona Outpost," his latest assignment. He is tall, young-looking and articulate, although somewhat reluctant to describe his exploits.

"I don't mind doing it to help publicize pictures," he said. "But I don't like to dwell on the 'hero' stuff. It's pretty old by now, especially with another war going on."

Ortiz lived in this country until he was 12, then moved to France, where his father was in business. Being restless, he ran away to sea at 15. His parents persuaded him to return after six months, but that didn't cure him. A few years later, he signed with the French Foreign Legion for a five-year hitch.

"I had been filled with all kinds of romantic notions about the Legion," he recalled. "My father tried to dissuade me, but he finally decided the discipline might be the thing I needed."

Ortiz stayed with the Legion eight years and recalls the experience with fondness.

"The public has a false impression about the Legion," he said. "It is supposed to be filled with criminals. There are some criminals, but there are many others with different reasons for escaping their past. Some had escaped from Hitler, other political refugees."

"I found in the Legion a spirit you don't see in any other fighting force, not even the U. S. Marines. Since so many Legionnaires have left their past behind them, they care little for the future. They expect to live and die in the Legion, and they will do brave things."

War broke out while he was in the U. S. He shipped out of Canada to rejoin the Legion, and his transport was torpedoed en route. That made him even angrier and he fought valiantly against the German blitz near Luxembourg. He was captured but escaped, later joining the U. S. Marines.

Jobs for The Vigilantes

By INEZ ROBB

Surprisingly, enough, I have found a job for those old busy-bodies, in both skirts and pants, who are currently running over the nation like vigilantes, threatening to boycott the booksellers as stock Nobel Prize winner William Faulkner and his literary like.

L. Leave them do their hat-chet work on a new book, if such indeed it is, about to hit the stands. This time boasts that it contains more than 500 recipes for canapes, the curse of the drinking classes.

If these illiterate busy-bodies will get to work on the canape book, they will, in the long run, save more souls—with bodies attached—than through all their present misguided efforts at infantile censorship.

OSCAR WILDE wrote in the "Ballad of Reading Gaol":

"Yet each man kills the thing he loves,

"By each act this is heard,

"Some do it with a bitter look,

"Some with a flattering word,

"The coward does it with a kiss,

"The brave man with a sword."

And, Oscar might have added, the hostess has achieved the perfect crime by perfecting the canape. That pause in the day's occupation now knows as the cocktail hour comes when an anguished guest, with one too many raw carrots doused in whipped cream and chocolate chips under his heaving belt, takes his hostess aside and pleads for the bicarb. Asides have been boosted on the wagon by the sight of a canape made or roquefort cheese topped with thousand island dressing and sprinkled with chopped marachino cherries and pistachio nuts than all the pink elephants in the alcoholic ward.

LOOK TO ROME, my friends; The decline and fall stemmed from her addition to the public baths and canapes. At the present point in civilization to permit someone to publish a book of more than 500 canape recipes is synonymous to inviting Lucretia Borgia to tell the girls how she mixed her famed martini maccabre or her two-drop daquiri-two and they drop dead permanently.

Philologists, if they will only dig back far enough, are bound to discover that "canape" was an old Mesopotamian word for "garbage." Indeed, the canape today is the easiest way when it comes to disposing of household garbage. The basic rule simply instructs the hostess to toss all odds and ends—rubbers, pencil stubs, corks, wrapping paper, last year's straw skimmer, modeling clay, anything!—into an electric blender, and moisten with store-bought mayonnaise.

IN THIS WAY, the modern woman obeys the old injunction "to for underground work, so he was parachuted into Fortress Europa and operated with the OSS. After the war, he was discharged as a lieutenant colonel with 27 decorations and 156 parachute jumps to his credit.

Ortiz was at his LaJolla, Calif., home when a call came to act as technical adviser on "22 Rue Madeleine," an OSS picture. He stayed on as adviser on war and Legionnaire films and turned to acting and stunt work. He enjoys it immensely.

FOLKS PASSING THRU CHEER OUR $1.25 T-BONE STEAK DINNERS

And why shouldn't they? Where in Ohio, or for that matter any other place can you get a juicy, tender, half-pound steak with potatoes, another vegetable, bread and butter and beverage for only $1.25?

Where, where, where, we ask. Nowhere—but here is the answer.

ALDOM'S .. SALEM DINER

Ortiz lived in this country until he was 12, then moved to France, where his father was in business. Being restless, he ran away to sea at 15. His parents persuaded him to return after six months, but that didn't cure him. A few years later, he signed with the French Foreign Legion for a five-year hitch.

waste not, want not' and tidies up the hall closet and the ice-box at one and the same time.

The other day a friend sent me a can of new Japanese "cocktail snacks." They are small, round cylinders, obviously made of compressed sawdust and varnished with fish glue. I would feel safer if I were sure that is all they contain. And since their arrival I have been thinking long, long thoughts about Japan's real intent toward the Western world. This stuff could be the forerunner of another Pearl Harbor.

Spring Cold Spell Fails To Damage Fruit Crop Here

Snow Blanket Protects Buds

Peaches, Cherries In Central Ohio Hurt

Fruit growers in the Columbus-Mahoning County area report the low temperatures and accompanying snow have not damaged the crop yet.

I. P. Lewis of New Waterford said the snow has protected his budding fruit trees. He said he examined the young buds on his apple, peach and sweet cherry trees and had found no sign of damage.

Jerome Hull, fruit grower at Canfield, said there is practically no bloom on his trees for the low temperatures to damage.

Nor has the cold weather caused any appreciable fruit damage elsewhere in the state's major fruit growing area.

Carl W. Ellenwood, assistant at the state's agricultural experiment station in Wooster, said in the northern part of the state the fruit is not sufficiently in bloom yet.

About three-fourths of the state's crop of peaches, apples, cherries and pears are grown in this area.

Ellenwood said most growers in Northern Ohio probably welcomed the cold weather because it put the crop back on schedule. "Two weeks ago, it was about 10 days ahead of schedule," he explained. "Now it's about normal, which the growers prefer."

In Southern Ohio, however, the fruit is further advanced than in the northern sections. In any area there in which the temperature dropped as low as 24 or 25 degrees, serious loss may result, the agriculturist said.

Southern Ohio growers reported heavy damage.

Fred O. Hartman, assistant horticulturist at Ohio State University, made this report on the Franklin County area from conditions in the university orchard:

Peaches — Completely lost. Temperatures from 19-21 degrees Sunday morning killed the crop.

Sweet cherries — Almost as bad as peaches. Can't expect even a partial crop.

Sour cherries — Some damage. May not cut crop extensively.

Japanese plums — Lost.

European plums — Small damage.

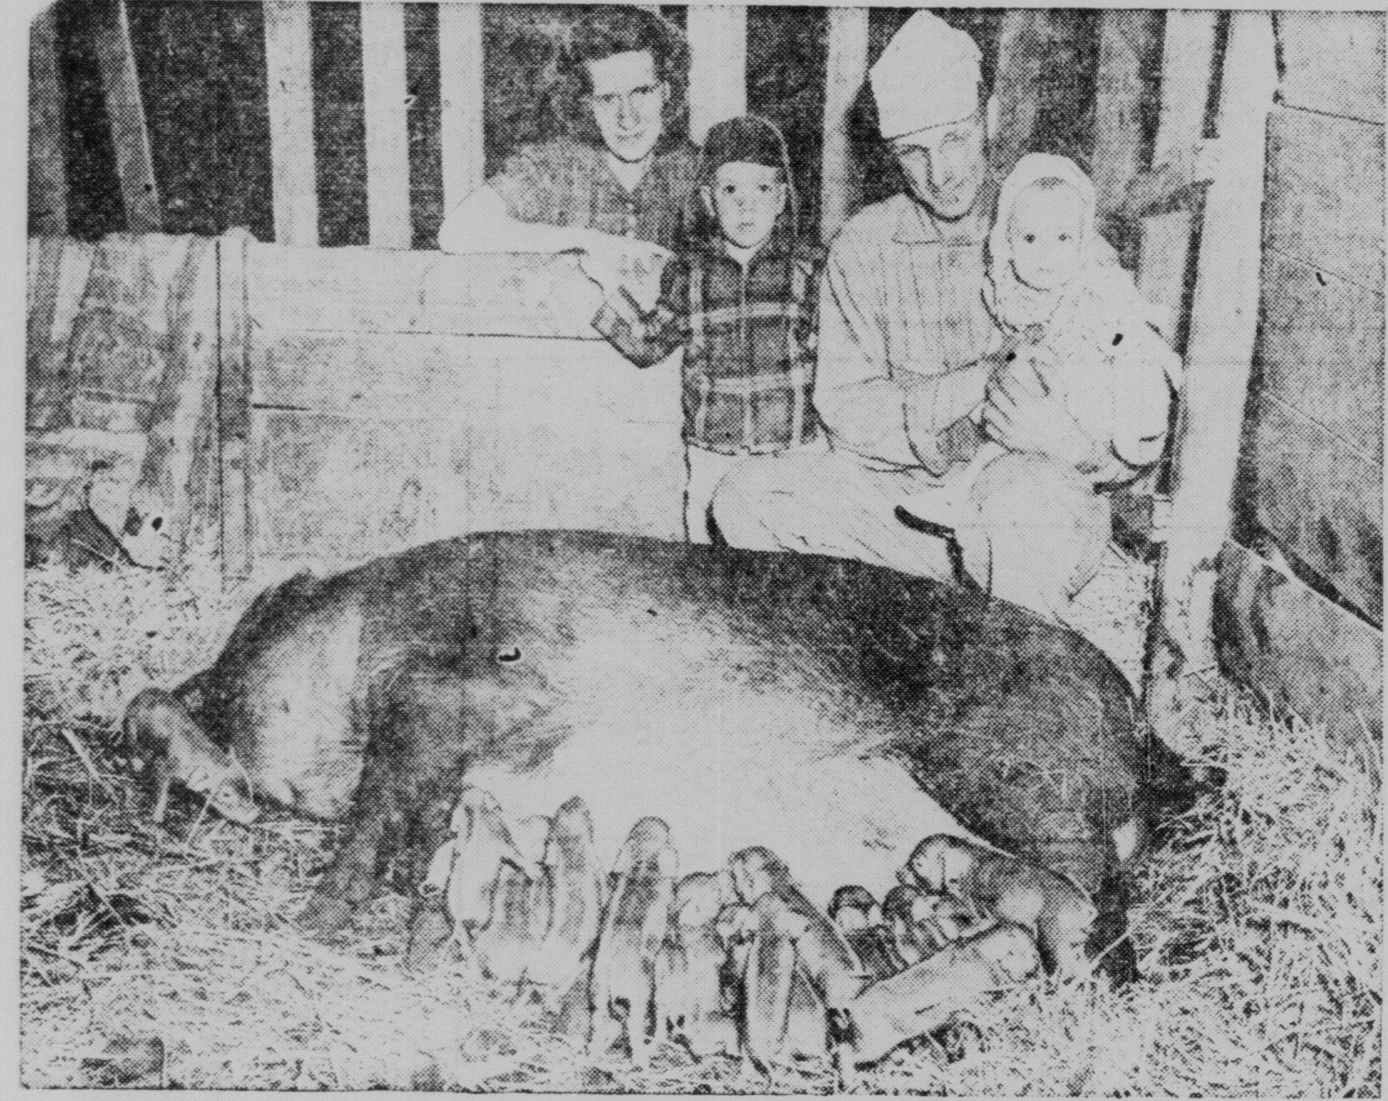

Pears — Those in bloom probably lost.

Apples — Buds of farthest advanced varieties may have been hurt considerably. Possibly weather did no more than thin crop.

Farm Animals Have Bumper Crop Year

Spring is in the air and some of the nation's farm animals are going "hog-wild" with their "kidding." Proving that the goats on the C. H. Davis farm near Muncie, Ind., are great kidders, "Betsy," right, shows off her four new kids. The week before, "Nanny," another goat on the Davis farm, had triplets. Goats usually have one or two kids at a time. Leonard Panek and his family, of Parsons, Kan., suspect their big Duroc sow has set something of a litter record. Normal litters run from nine to 12. Mama porker is shown below feeding some of her 20 piglets. The litter originally totaled 22, but two died. Farmer Panek had a feeding problem until he divided the litter in half. That way, each piglet gets "first milk" every other shift.

Poultrymen See Higher Egg Profits

Poultry specialists see more profit in eggs—at least until late 1953. So more attention to your poultry flock might help take up any slack in profits you might have in other farm operations.

Here are several ways suggested to take advantage of higher egg prices:

1. Keep pullets away from older birds. An all-pullet flock is a good answer to the segregation problem. And if you do keep over some good layers, don't mix them with pullets or disease can spread easily. Specialists say to house them at least 400 feet apart.

2. Raise pullets on good pasture—probably the largest single factor of good health. S. F. Ruden, Illinois extension poultryman, says the best way to get large eggs is to give pullets all the feed and good clean range they can use. Laidino makes excellent pasture.

3. Cull out boarders — spot loafers early — to save feed costs. Heaviest pullets at 12 weeks are quite likely to be the first to come into production.

4. Provide plenty of floor and feeder space. Each bird needs 3 to 4 square feet in the laying house, according to breed. Crowding causes high mortality and low egg output.

5. Watch protein level. A hen should have at least 15 percent protein ration. Half-and-half grain and 20 percent protein mash is a recommended formula. Some poultrymen say that all-pullet flocks might need a 17-percent ration. An easy way to figure protein level is to multiply the percent in the mash times the amount fed. If 70 pounds of an 18 percent laying mash are fed with each 30 pounds of grain, there will be 12.6 pounds of protein. The grain at 10 percent protein will give 3 pounds, bringing the total to 15.6 pounds or percent.

Ohio Grapes Suffer Nutrient Deficiencies

Grapes in Ohio's commercial vineyards are suffering from a lack of six essential plant nutrients, according to a survey made by the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

J. M. Beattie, horticulturist at the Station, analyzed 83 leaf samples from Concord vines at 56 vineyards in Ohio. About 38 percent had so low a level of nitrogen that growers could expect higher yields by applying nitrogen fertilizer. On the same basis, 40 percent would respond to applications of phosphorus, 60 percent to potassium, 54 percent to calcium, 14 percent to magnesium, and 8 percent to applications of manganese.

Vineyard owners can overcome this condition by making proper applications of essential fertilizers. Beattie recommends 120 pounds of ammonium nitrate, 200 pounds of 20 percent superphosphate, and 75 pounds muriate of potash per acre. If soil analysis shows nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash are all needed, an application of 5-10-10 fertilizer at the rate of 800 pounds per acre is recommended.

Straight Lines Make Best Design For Vegetable Plot

If you take pride in the appearance of your home grounds — and distance between them, depending on two factors: The needs of the crop, and the convenience of cultivation. In rich soil vegetables may be spaced more closely than in poor, but when spaced too close together, it is difficult to cultivate between the rows.

With short rows you are seldom tempted to sow more of a variety than you can use, just to empty the seed packet. They are easier to cultivate by hand, and facilitate the division of your land among many different crops.

Square up the corners of the boundary line and make the rows exactly parallel with the sides. An exception to the rule for straight rows may be made in hilly country, where the wash of soil may be checked by contour planting. Here rows should run at right angles to the slope, but they should still be parallel, though on rounded slopes they will be curved.

Serpentine, slanting or uneven rows will double the work of cultivation, and give an appearance of incompetence to the garden.

10 inches to a foot apart, and cultivated with hand tools. For cultivation with a wheel hoe, eighteen inches is likely to be found a minimum distance, since it is necessary to avoid disturbing the roots of the vegetables, whatever tool is used.

Taller vegetables, and those that make vines, large bushes, or have a sprawling habit, must be given more distance between rows. In small gardens, 4 feet will usually be the maximum distance, given only for such crops as bush squash and cucumbers.

First decide on the crops you will grow, which should be those that your family likes, or ought to like. Next, determine the quantity of each which you will try to produce, which should be the amount you will eat in the fresh state plus what you will put up for next winter.

In the case of the short-harvest crops, plan for several plantings of each, spaced so that one harvest will follow another throughout the season.

GETS FARM BUREAU POST

COLUMBUS — Merle J. Tomas of Columbus has been named district field supervisor for the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, D. R. Stanfield, director of organization, announced today. Tomas, who has been organization director for the farm organization in Delaware, Franklin and Fairfield Counties since 1951, will take over the post May 1.

two facts farmers consider when they decide which method to use.

He points out that an ideal time to broadcast seed would be just before the last freeze—if that could be determined. Seed that is sowed earlier than the last freeze may germinate and be killed by later freezes. If farmers sow too late, the ground dries out and wheat offers seedlings more competition.

If seed is broadcast at the right time, freezing, thawing and rains will help cover it. Harrowing will help cover seed that is broadcast too late.

Gist recommends drilling 150 to 200 pounds of superphosphate with drilled meadow seed. "If a complete fertilizer is used," he warns, "do not place more than 25 pounds of nitrogen or potash or a combination of the two in contact with the seed."

Egg prices are expected to continue higher during the next few months than they were last year.

70-Inch Corn Rows Advised By Wooster Farm Agronomist

Sowing wheat or grass-legume crops between corn rows 70 inches apart has been suggested by G. H. Stringfield, agronomist at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, Wooster.

Stringfield points out that when soil and weather conditions are good enough to produce 75 bushels of corn an acre, corn rows 50 inches apart will yield as well as 30 or 40-inch rows.

"This is true only when the number of plants per acre is alike and adequate," the agronomist emphasized. "It appears that many farmers get higher yields at narrow row-spacings (40 inches or less) because of more nearly optimum acre-stands — and not necessarily because rows are closer together."

It would be easier to sow wheat between 60 or 70 inch corn rows. Farmers also might summer-seed plow-down crops or even meadow crops between wide corn rows.

Stringfield suggests planting a mid-season or full-season adapted hybrid at an adequate number of plants per acre in rows about 70 inches apart. Farmers who did this could sow wheat on the fly-free date in unharvested corn or they might plant plow-down or meadow crops between the corn rows in summer. They could delay corn harvest until the crop was in proper condition.

"The average result," Stringfield said, "should be about 3 bushels less corn and 3 bushels more wheat an acre, better quality of both crops and an orderly sequence in fall farm jobs." He cautioned that summer seedlings of grass and legumes are more susceptible to dry weather than spring seedlings and that wide corn rows with interplanted crops are not a substitute for crop rotation.

STRANGE NEW CLOVER

A white-flowered strain of crimson clover has been selected by an Arkansas agronomist, reports Capper's Farmer. If the strain proves superior, it will need a brand-new name. The agronomist, P. A. Sanddal, plans to select for earliness and other desirable traits.

Earl L. Grate stands with two of his Quaker Mule tractors

Quaker Mule Tractor For Home Gardener Is Made Here

The Grate Machine Co. on the Salem-Lisbon road, making attachments for the Frazier Rototiller since 1946, has turned its production over to a new small three-wheel tractor known as the Quaker Mule.

The Quaker Mule, to be offered for sale soon, plows, spreads fertilizer, rolls, harrows and mows, the manufacturer says.

It can be obtained with a choice of three air-cooled engines, 2 1/2, 3 and 5 horsepower. A riding tractor, it is constructed with offset wheel for cultivating.

Three speeds forward and a reverse, with individual brakes on each rear wheel and worm drive steering make this locally made economical tractor a boon to the small farmer and gardener.

Expects 23-Cent Hogs This Summer

Farmers probably will see hog prices at 23 cents this summer before the fall seasonal decline, says Robert Schwartz, extension economist at Ohio State University.

He advises farmers to plan normal production for next year. "Aim to hit the strong markets in early fall or spring. Don't forget that the consumer likes a meat type hog."

It is too late to plan for the 23-cent market this summer but Schwartz says the farmer with hogs to sell should "fare very well. On March 16, 13.7 bushels of corn could be purchased with the receipts from 100 pounds of pork on the Chicago market. This is the best ratio since 1950. A year ago it was only 9."

Livestock prices for the rest of 1953 probably will be stable unless dry weather or other poor range conditions increase cattle marketings. Hog prices probably will be more favorable relative to cattle prices than in any recent years.

Schwartz expects pork output to total 12 to 15 percent less than in 1952. There were 12 percent fewer hogs on hand on January 1 and about 12 percent fewer pigs this spring.

Schwartz says, "This probably will keep hog prices above last year and have some bolstering effect on cattle prices."

STUDY CORN RESEARCH

URBANA-CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — A systematic attempt to maintain the genetic corn stocks of the corn belt region will be inaugurated July 1 when a new corn genetics research center will be established at the University of Illinois. It will be supervised by Prof. Marcus M. Rhoades and J. R. Laughnan, attached to the University's botany and agronomy departments.

Sheep flocks need dipping or spraying for ticks shortly after shearing.

Sharpen Those Garden Tools Now; Make Plot Right Size

By HENRY FREE

Before undertaking any new plantings or changes in the garden, take stock of what you have. Do not take on more garden than you are able to take care of this summer.

Have you gone over your garden tools to see that they are clean and whole? Spades, shovels and trowels have the habit of being dull just when you need one well sharpened. Do not wait until the grass needs cutting before you have your lawn mower sharpened. If you start the season with a dull mower you will have a ragged lawn.

The Old Gardener again stresses the value of a seed and fertilizer spreader. This sturdy, all-steel rubber-tired machine is just what you need for economical, accurate seeding and feeding of the lawn, be it old or new.

The rate control and shut-off located on the handle assures you of an even distribution. Hand distribution is never even and nine times out of 10 the gardener over-seeds or feeds. The spreader pays for itself the first time it is used.

Another suggested investment is a flexible steel tooth lawn rake, one generally used for raking leaves in autumn. This rake is particularly valuable for use in spring to work fertilizer and seed down into the soil where they belong. Little or no burning of grass will result after fertilizer is spread. Watering after raking is further insurance against such damage if fertilizer remains overnight on the grass blades, burning is bound to follow. Even a heavy rain will not remove it. However, one need not worry since the burnt grass will be removed at the first mowing of the lawn.

If you are putting in a new lawn, remember that it will be only as good as its foundation. Grass will grow most anywhere—but unless the soil is prepared to a depth of six inches or more, humus of some sort and fertilizer worked in prior to seeding the results will be disappointing.

Selecting a reliable seed mixture, scratching it in very lightly after sowing and never letting the seed bed dry out, is the advice of the Old Gardener. The type of seed you choose will depend upon how the lawn is to be used and also upon the amount of sun or shade.

Remember that creeping bent is not for a playground. A mixture strong in fescue is best where children are playing.

Daylily is the pretty, common name given to two indispensable perennials — hemerocallis and hosta. The Old Gardener, recommending both, calls particular attention to the hemerocallis because one can now get a May-to-September succession of bloom from these easy-to-grow perennials.

MORE CORN FROM LESS ACREAGE — Corn acreage has been declining over the past twenty years after reaching 117 million acres in 1932. Despite this, corn production has been on the upgrade, reaching about 100 million tons in 1948. The yield in bushels per planted acre has also increased, reaching a high of 40 bushels per acre in 1948. Largely responsible for this increase has been the use of hybrid seed and a greater utilization of mechanical equipment. Data from U. S. Department of Agriculture.

IFYE Student Speaks At Dublin Grange

Miss Betty Jean Riddle, who was an IFYE (International Farm Youth Exchange) student to Denmark in 1950, gave an illustrated talk of her experiences in Denmark at Dublin Grange hall April 14.

This meeting was sponsored by the Mahoning County Junior Leadership Club and the Dublin Grange. Also present at the meeting was Miss Jean Stille of Mahoning County who will be an IFYE delegate to Norway this summer.

The Agricultural Extension Service is interested in locating good families who would be interested in having an IFYE exchange in their home for three to four weeks. It is preferred that the family have a member of the family who is about the same age as the exchange so that the exchange will have an opportunity to participate in youth program activities.

Anyone interested in being a host for an IFYE student should contact the Agricultural Extension Office in Canfield, Chester E. Swank, Associate County agent announced.

Lebanon To Cut Film For "Pro-Zionism"

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Lebanon's board of film censors has recommended that the U. S. film "Ivanhoe" be cut to remove "pro-Zionist" leanings.

The board made the recommendation after the film was blasted in Lebanon's press for depicting Jews as "admirable, humane persons who had lost their homeland and wander persecuted over the earth."

Oil Lands Bill Debate Goes On

All-Night Sessions Considered By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Millikin (R-Colo.) said today "we may have to get out the cots" for all-night sessions of the Senate on the controversial and long-debated submerged lands bill.

With the administration's legislative program facing indefinite delay, Republican Leader Taft of Ohio said he was considering a move to invoke cloture—a limit on the torrent of talk on the bill which has tied up the Senate for 13 days.

But Taft said that, at least for the present, he believed any such move was doomed to failure.

Millikin, chairman of the Conference of All Republican Senators, said in an interview he fears continuous sessions may be the only way to reach a final vote on the measure, backed by the Eisenhower administration.

In the past, Senate cloakrooms sometimes have been filled with cots in which weary members could snatch a few winks while oratory droned on at night owl sessions.

Other measures are piling up while the Senate debates the bill to establish state title to oil-rich submerged lands within their historic boundaries.

During last night's session, which lasted until 10:51 p. m., Taft told newsmen off the Senate floor that a cloture petition had been drafted, and he added:

Milk Code

President of the board, told the group of 32 farmers and milk retailers that "the board would rather drop action on the code altogether rather than jeopardize the public health program as a whole."

The code provides for a strict program of bacteriological testing of milk and rigid inspection of barns and dairy plants. It already is in effect in many Ohio counties and such nearby communities as Youngstown, East Liverpool and Pittsburgh.

Board members did not say whether the milk code would be discussed at the next meeting in May.

Wall Street Market Advances For Second Day

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market carried through its advance today for the second straight session.

Virtually all sections joined in the rise which extended to around a point at the best. Losses were fractional and with one or two exceptions they didn't exert any pressure in a major group.

Railroads were active and higher. Steels also were active but they presented a mixed appearance.

Those advancing included General Motors, Woolworth, Boeing, Zenith Radio, American Telephone, Consolidated Natural Gas, Kennecott Copper, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse Electric, American Woolen, Southern Railway, Pan American World Airways, and U. S. Gypsum.

There were some losers including U. S. Steel, Goodyear, Phelps Dodge, International Paper, and Warner Bros.

Obituary

Mrs. Edwin McMillen

Mrs. Katherine C. McMillen, 86, who resided with her daughter, Mrs. John A. Moore of Gibsonia, Pa., died Monday at 7:45 a.m. at the Shady Side Nursing Home in Pittsburgh, where she was a patient for the past five years.

She was born June 7, 1866, the daughter of Rev. J. M. and Amanda Crozier Carr. Rev. Carr was at one time pastor of the Salem Methodist Church.

Mrs. McMillen was graduated from Salem High School, and attended Mount Union College where she was a member of the Delta Gamma Sorority. Her husband, Edwin L. McMillen, died about 15 years ago.

Survivors besides Mrs. Moore, include a son, Hugh McMillen of Philadelphia and a brother, Francis I. Carr of Canfield. The late Mrs. Mary Carr Curtis of RD 1, was a sister of Mrs. McMillen.

Funeral service will be held Wednesday morning at the Waples funeral home, Pittsburgh. The body will be brought to Salem for interment in Grandview Cemetery.

Rev. O. O. Wilson of the Canfield Methodist Church will hold a graveside service at approximately 3 p. m. Wednesday.

Edward Young

COLUMBIANA — Edward Young, 78, formerly of East Fairfield and Rogers, was found dead Monday afternoon by his wife alongside his car in the garage of their home at 730 Mayberry Lane, East Liverpool.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at 5 p.m. at East Liverpool City Hospital.

Mrs. Young reported the garage was full of fumes and that the car motor was no longer running when she found her husband. Mr. Young, she said, had been subject to heart attacks.

County Coroner, E. R. Sturges is investigating.

Born July 29, 1874, in England, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Young. He came with his parents to this country when he was six years old. In 1898 he married Mary Barnes who died in 1940. He later married Mayme Richardson who survives in the home.

He was a member of the Rogers Methodist Church and formerly a member of the Fairfield Grange. Most of his life was spent in East Fairfield.

Besides his wife he is survived by three sons, John E. of New Waterford, Norman of Columbiana, Robert W. of Poland; a daughter, Mrs. Chalmers Webber of New Waterford; a step-daughter and step-son, Mrs. Bruce Henry and Duane Richardson, both of East Liverpool; a sister, Mrs. Fred Esenwein of Columbiana; 11 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Funeral service will be held at the Warrick Funeral home in Columbiana Thursday at 2 p.m., with interment in East Fairfield cemetery. Rev. G. E. Chalfant of the Rogers Methodist Church will officiate. Friends may call at the funeral home Wednesday evening.

a small room. Next morning when I woke up there were only two living."

Herndon who had a wounded hand amputated by Chinese doctors eight days before the march, said many died from pneumonia. He said all they had to eat on the march was "millet and cracked corn. . . one bowl a day."

Herndon just laughed when asked if attempts to indoctrinate him in communism had worked.

"I've never been so happy as to reach freedom today," he said. Mullins told of a march north from Pyongyang in August, 1951, just as the truce talks were beginning.

"We passed two jeeploads of Russian soldiers," he said. "They stopped us on the road and tried to get our guards drunk so they would shoot us."

Mullins said the Russians were armed and in uniform. He said he knew the Russians wanted the guards to shoot because "they made motions."

Sgt. Mitchell said about 20 serious hospital cases were left behind. "Medical attention was no good at all. Very few guys got any."

His story was confirmed by Pvt. Louis Kerkstra of Byron Center, Mich., who contracted tuberculosis.

"Some of the TB patients in my hospital were in worse condition than I was," he said.

"The way I see it, they took me because I was in a little better shape and knew we would hit the press first."

Treatment of the prisoners varied widely from place to place and time to time.

Pfc. Tibor Rubin of Long Beach, Calif., a Hungarian who spent 14 months in a Nazi prison camp in World War II, said Red treatment was better than the Nazis gave him.

"The Chinese treated us much better—I'm not Communist, but they did treat me better than the Germans," he said.

Cpl. Pedro Herrera of Mamaronek, N. Y., said he was bayoneted in the head by a prison guard but blamed it on a misunderstanding caused by the language barrier.

Akron Bus Co. Asked To Give Up Franchise

AKRON, O. (AP)—The city asked Akron Transportation Co. today to surrender its franchise.

Service for the city's 100,000 bus riders has been suspended since April 1 by a strike and a dispute between the firm and the city on fares.

William H. Muldoon, ATC vice president, told the AFL Mechanics Union he could not increase wages until the fare boost was negotiated. The mechanics walked out at the beginning of the month and the CIO bus drivers refused to pass their pickets.

ATC and the city have agreed fares should go up three cents to 15 cents each, but in addition the ATC wants to cut service. The city wants at least the same amount of service as before the strike.

Mayor Charles Slusser served the city's demand on Muldoon, who promised to take it to his superiors for a quick answer.

Mechanics, who got $1.70 hourly, want 30 cents more. Drivers, who were getting $1.60, asked 25 cents more and some fringe agreements.

pleading guilty to a charge of grand larceny.

Strickland was indicted by the January Grand Jury for his part in stealing about $2,000 worth of household items from a Lisbon residence.

Meanwhile, Charles L. Ferguson, 21, of East Liverpool, changed a plea of not guilty to one of guilty and requested probation on charges of burglary and larceny of an East Liverpool apartment Jan. 8.

With the change of pleas of Montgomery and Ferguson, only two of the 10 who were arraigned Monday will face trial.

They are Charles E. Hall of East Liverpool and Robert E. Miller of Washingtonville.

Hall is accused of embezzling $531 while employed as a driver-salesman for the Frantz Bakers while Miller is charged with incest. He has been ordered to the Woodside Hospital at Youngstown for an examination.

nese Peoples' Republic. Long Live the Korean Peoples Democratic Government!"

The smaller U. N. gate bears the simple slogan:

"Welcome—Gate to Freedom." United Nations prisoners who came back Tuesday, while jubilant over their release, told soberly of pain and suffering among comrades left behind.

Marine Pvt. Lione E. Peterson of Black River Falls, Wis.; Army Pvt. Charles Sacco of Ontario, Canada; Puerto Rican Pvt. Juan Osorio-Melendez, and Army Pvt. Roger Herndon of Jacksonville, Fla., told of friends who died on 50-day marches . . . of men who died of disease and of hunger.

Another told of uniformed Russian soldiers who tried to get Communist guards drunk so they would shoot the American prisoners.

The first ambulance to pull into the neutral zone Tuesday was loaded with Allied prisoners shouting and wincing. The first man out was Pfc. Paul O. Blanton of Broadhead, Ky. The second was Pvt. John M. Jankovits Jr. of Philadelphia.

It was 9 a. m. The sun broke through the clouds as the first British trooper, Pvt. George Chambers, stepped out and started to clown.

"Any Limeys out there," he called.

Another member of the almost decimated Gloucestershire Regiment yelled:

"Any scotch out there?" There was no burr in his voice, so his meaning was plain.

From another ambulance there came the muffled voice of an American:

"Hubba hubba!"

Two Turks saluted smartly as they stepped down from the ambulance. They were greeted by the Turkish liaison officer on hand to speed them to Freedom Village, a tent city erected to give first attention to the warped bodies of the men on the road back.

The first 50 of the Allied trickle of 100 moved out fast. By a little after 11 a. m. the second 50 were emptying out of the Communist vehicles and stepping on free ground again.

They moved slower and were less jocular. All were given speedy medical care, food cigarettes and a warm welcome.

Many of the returning prisoners showed few signs of wounds or illness. Some spoke bitterly of friends left behind who, they said, were hurt far worse but for some reason did not make the Communist repatriation list.

All wore the blue cotton uniform, peaked cap and tennis shoes the Reds gave them just six miles up the road at rubble Kaesong the Communists' truce headquarters.

Allied officers reported the Reds were carrying out a strange procedure at their receiving point. Chinese and North Korean prisoners returned from Allied camps were dusted with insecticide even their rations and personal possessions were sprayed.

The Allied officers said Red spokesmen explained that it was all a precaution against Allied germ warfare.

Gold Star Class Has Coverdish Supper

About 20 adults and eight children enjoyed a coverdish supper when the Gold Star Class met at 5:30 Sunday evening in the Christian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Schnorrenberg and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Glicker were hosts for the evening.

Robert Ware presided at the routine business meeting which followed the supper.

The next meeting will be held in the church May 17.

TO HELP PAY FOR BRIDGE

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Highway director S. O. Linzell said Monday the federal government will contribute $1,405,000 to the construction of the approach to the Ft. Steuben bridge at Steubenville. Linzell said the federal government will participate in the project "for all portions of the approach to the bridge except for the part which serves the toll bridge exclusively."
